Story of the War*

Just a few minutes before a German bomb crashed into the famous Cafe de Paris in London, leaving death and destruction in its wake, AUSTEN LAKE, Boston's only war correspondent, left the table at which he had been dining, thus escaping a fate of many less fortunate. Within a few minutes after the bomb had landed, Lake was back at that cafe viewing scenes of horror where such a short time before there had been gaiety.

This is only one of the thrilling experiences encountered by Lake, which he describes as only Lake can, in his brilliant new series — "OUR AUSTEN LAKE IN ENGLAND" — beginning in the Boston Evening American next Monday.

"I have never quite understood why you newspapermen are so ready to 'stick your chin out' just to get a story," wrote a captain in the Canadian Military Headquarters in London to Lake as Boston's most famous reporter, prepared to sail home. And well might he have written that, for Lake kept "sticking his chin out" from the time he left Boston to the time he returned in order to come back with the greatest story of the war.

Lake, who recently attracted wide attention with his series — "THE RAF WOUNDED SPEAK" — was the only American newspaperman permitted to sail to England and back on a convoy. His day-by-day diary of life on a convoy, dodging sea raiders and U-boats, packs a wallop exceeded only by the recital of his experiences in London itself.

U. S. TROOPS WILL GUARD GREENLAND

WASHINGTON, April 10 (INS)—In a move of great import, the United States, on behalf of all Western Hemisphere countries, today took over defense of Greenland and, under an agreement with Denmark's minister to Washington, acquired the right to build bases and quarter troops there.

Announcement that a virtual military protectorate will be established over the island by this country was made by the State Department.

Simultaneously, the White House by issuing a statement by President Roosevelt—revealed the step was taken because "German planes have been flying" over the Danish possession which is roughly 1000 miles northeast of Maine.

Ramifications of the move were three-fold:
1—Should the United States send troops to Greenland and build bases there—as it apparently intends to do—it would automatically project this nation to the very edge of the "war theater" inasmuch as Germany recently proclaimed its blockade to extend to Iceland and to within three miles of Greenland.

2—Because, according to the Danish legislation in Washington, the agreement was signed by Denmark's minister to this country "without the knowledge of King Christian X or the Copenhagen government," it may result in some retaliatory step against Nazi-occupied Denmark by the Germans.

3—It immediately provoked speculation that Greenland will become a great "halfway" post for President Roosevelt's "Bridge of Ships" to Britain and for planes for the English as well. Further that it would open way for the United States to begin conveying half way across the Atlantic (British convoys then taking over)—a procedure followed in the first World War. It was learned that the Coast Guard already has established a radio station at Greenland, and has asked Congress for $40,000 for additional equipment "for a Greenland expedition."

FACT SIGNED
Although the United States for some time has held that the western portion of Greenland is in the Western Hemisphere—and therefore under the protection of the Monroe Doctrine—the move places it there in its entirety—and beyond any dispute.

So far as is known, the United States has only a few of its neutrality patrol vessels in the Greenland area at the present time. When the first step will be made to actually take over the island and make it a virtual protectorate was not disclosed.

The agreement was signed at the State Department yesterday by Secretary of State Cordell Hull on behalf of the United States and by Danish Minister Henrik de Kauffmann on behalf of the King of Denmark.

Under its terms the United States is granted the right to establish air bases on Greenland for the defense of that territory as well as

Turks Fear Attack Evacuate Istanbul; Greeks Still Holding

By the Associated Press
Fears of an imminent German attack on Turkey, neutral ally of Great Britain, were seen today in a Turkish government announcement that it had been "found advisable" to remove a considerable part of the population of Istanbul.

The announcement followed only a few hours after the Rome radio broadcast a report that Germany's ace diplomat, Franz von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, had reiterated "the assurance that Germany has no intention of attacking Turkey."

Istanbul lies on the European side of the strategic Bosphorus, link between the Dardanelles and the Black Sea. It is less than 100 miles from German-occupied Bulgaria.

Nazi forces have already slashed down through Thracian Greece alongside the Turkish frontier.

Greece's own struggle against the Germans took on a slightly brighter aspect today as military quarters in Athens declared that her army remained intact "to deal a decisive blow at the German invader with allied support."

CLAIM 80,000 TAKEN

A German military spokesman in Berlin asserted that more than 80,000 Greeks had been captured in the sweep through Thrace and that the final number will be much greater.

The British radio said Balkan war news was reaching London in little more than a trickle, but that it seemed clear the Germans were still making headway.

While news of land fighting in Greece was sparse, Athens dispatches said British RAF bombers heavily strafed German motor transport columns and troop concentrations and bombed bridges at Axiopolis, 30 miles northwest of Salonika.

Many casualties were inflicted, the British announced.

The Budapest newspaper 8 Orai Ujsag (literally "8 o'clock News") said Nazi troops racing across Yugoslavia had established contact with Italian forces in Albania.

GREEKS STUBBORN

Countering an official Greek denial, Hitler's high command still insisted that Greece's "lost army" of the east—trapped by the Germans' lightning thrust down the Vardar River valley to Salonika—was capitulating.

"Completely isolated Greek forces east of the Vardar are surrendering unconditionally," a Nazi communique asserted.

German war correspondents said the break through the Greek Mezzas line was one of the war's hardest assignments for Nazi paratroopers.

Stuka dive-bombers attacking for hours, as well as artillery, played an important role, they said, but the decisive break came when flame-throwers, grenadiers and infantry stormed Greek defense bunkers.

On the western front, the war in the air continued with unabated fury.

BRITISH RUSH TROOPS

Reports from the front indicated that Yugoslavia would be compelled to fight a separate battle.

Battalions of British flame-throwers, tanks and armored cars newly arrived from Africa were reported rushing north today from Piraeus, the port of Athens, for a decisive battle with Hitler's legions. Unconfirmed rumors circulated in Budapest said Belgrade, the GERMANS DRIVE ON—Striking westward from Skopje, Nazi units today reportedly joined legions of the Italian army near the Albanian border (1) . . . while British and Greek forces set up new defense lines (2) west of Salonika and 300,000 Greeks caught in the fall of Salonika, dug in for a determined stand in eastern Macedonia (3). As a result of the German drive to Albania, the main Yugo army, which is engaging Nazis from all sides in Northern Yugoslavia (4), is threatened with complete encirclement. Other action saw the Slavs pushing deeper into Albania (5) while other legions of Yugoslavia's army were reported driven out of southwestern Hungary (6).

HEAVIEST RAF RAID RIPS BERLIN; OPERA HOUSE AND PALACE BURNED

BERLIN, April 10 (INS)—Swastika-flagged and eagle-crested Berlin, monument to the military might of the Nazi regime, dug out beneath a pall of acrid smoke today from the most devastating Royal Air Force raid of the war.

British bombers coming over in waves unleashed a hail of high explosive and incendiary bombs which carved a swath of fire through the heart of the capital. Burned out was the glittering State Opera House on Unter den Linden, where Adolf Hitler has spent countless nights listening to the Niebelung Ring.

Heavily damaged was the State Library, stripped long ago of its non-Aryan books and now a treasure house of Nazi lore.

Hit also was the famous Emperor I Palace opposite the opera house. Picturesque Bellevue Palace, refurbished and redecorated in recent years under Hitler's personal direction as the official guest house for all foreign dignitaries visiting Berlin, was damaged.

Even Potsdam, the aristocratic suburb where in the days of the Hohenzollerns all the pomp and panoply of an imperial dynasty was centered, did not escape. Brief reports told of damage to Sans Souci, the summer palace of Frederick the Great, used by all his imperial successors as a refuge from state duties. It is now a museum.

Six persons were killed at Potsdam, it was announced. Throughout the whole attack, officials said, military and industrial damage was "insignificant."

BRITISH USE U. S.-MADE PLANES IN DEVASTATING BERLIN ATTACK

LONDON, April 10 (INS)—Among the British fighter command aircraft which participated in last night's devastating raid on Berlin were a number of Douglas DB-7S, American-made craft known as Havocs.

A number of the DB-7S, also known as the Boston twin-engine fighter-bomber, were ordered originally by the French republic but later were taken over by the British. It is reported to have a top speed of 320 miles an hour, with a range of 1200 miles.

Unofficial sources said such a plane is considered useful for "offensive night patrols over German-occupied airdromes."

DOUGLAS DB-7S

At the height of the attack the skies over Berlin were filled with roaring planes, the stabbing beams of searchlights, the angry silver whish of tracer bullets and all the

Jim Roosevelt Weds Ex-Nurse Next Week

LOS ANGELES, April 10—James Roosevelt, Marine captain and eldest son of the President, and his one-time nurse, Romelle Schneider, will be married here on Tuesday—possibly by a Catholic priest.

MISSING FOR FIVE WEEKS

Massachusetts police today were asked to help locate Hazel Thibodeau, 27, of West Roxbury, who left her work at the Registry of Motor Vehicles after a fainting spell five weeks ago. She never arrived home. Miss Thibodeau weighs 100 pounds, is five feet two inches tall, has brown hair, hazel eyes and an olive complexion.

Son James disclosed his marriage plans today just before he and Miss Schneider obtained a wedding license at Los Angeles City Hall, but no comment was forthcoming on the religious aspect of the union.

In revealing what rumor long has proclaimed, young Roosevelt said:

"We plan a quiet home wedding with only Miss Schneider's family and my mother present."

"The only thing that could possibly change the date is the ability of my mother to reach here in time, an eventuality we do not expect."

"I am stationed now at the Marine base at San Diego, but I don't know how long before I will be sent elsewhere, so we decided to get married at once."

The possibility of a Catholic ceremony found no comment on the West Coast, but only a week ago it was reported that the young movie producer had been taking instructions in that faith.

Asked concerning this, Roosevelt would not comment.

Miss Schneider is known to be a devout Catholic and marriage of the couple was not held earlier because of the church ban against such a ceremony during Lent.

However, there was much speculation throughout the nation concerning the marriage ceremony since the bridegroom is divorced and father of two children.

His wife, Betsy Cushing, daughter of the late Harvey Cushing, famous Brookline, Mass., brain surgeon, divorced him last year.

Miss Schneider was Roosevelt's nurse when he was critically ill at Mayo Hospital in Rochester, Minn., two years ago following an operation for a stomach ailment. When he went to the West Coast to recuperate Miss Schneider accompanied him and has been his constant companion ever since.

YD Fights Pine Fire Set by Own Shells

CAMP EDWARDS, April 10—The first salvo of heavy .75 mm shells fired on the new "perfect range" here today set off a forest fire that burned over 15 acres of scrub pine forest and imperiled the lives of hundreds of men.

Though the range has been in use for weeks, when the men of A Battery of the 102d Field Artillery (Essex County) trundled their heavy pieces into position, it was the first time the .75's had been fired.

The first salvo of five shells, Army officials said, set fire to the trees in the impact region.

Within a few moments acres of forest land had been transformed into a raging inferno.

The men of the 102nd, and of the 101st Field Artillery, that had been about to fire, went into action with spades to check the flames, the camp fire department was called, and medical units of the 26th Division sent ambulances to the scene. A hurry call was put in for the fire departments of Bourne, Falmouth, Sandwich and other towns, and the state forest fire brigade also responded.

A brisk east wind drove the flames faster than a man could walk.

2 Gunmen Get $750 in Holdup of Fruit Man

Two gunmen today held up a Dorchester fruit dealer and robbed him of $750 shortly after he had left his home on his way to purchase produce in the market district.

The victim, Louis C. Yelovitz, 55, of Callender st., Dorchester, was walking along Woodrow ave., a short distance from his home, bound for his truck garage, when the bandits accosted him.

ROMELLE SCHNEIDER
Wedding Date Set

Louella Parsons comes forth with the announcement today that Stirling Hayden, Gloucester's gift to film-land, and Katharine Aldridge (here), film-stress, are teamed up in Hollywood's newest romance. Miss Aldridge is a former model.

STIRLING HAYDEN, GIRL FILM STAR IN ROMANCE

Screen success and romance go hand in hand and Stirling Hayden, the handsome and dashing Gloucester skipper, is no exception, according to Louella Parsons, noted film critic.

Hayden is all agog over beautiful Katharine Aldridge, the honey-haired Dixie gal with the Gone With the Wind accent, and it appears they work both ways.

"The biggest secret romance in town" is the way Louella puts it... and you can bet she isn't talking about Stirling's six feet, three inches when she says "biggest."

Ray is the one-time picture magazine girl whose beauty even caused gasps among hardened Hollywooders. Not so long ago she said she "just loved boys" and hoped she soon "would meet a nice one and get married."

Well, what are we waiting for?

Incidentally, Hayden's initial fame seems no flash in the pan. Miss Parsons finds him just as attractive off stage as on, and that's saying plenty.

Hollywood thinks he soon will be screenland's No. 1 glamour boy, and his next picture is going a long way toward telling the story.

Buddy De Sylva is going to give him the big role in "Tomorrow's Admirals," an epic showing how college men are trained to become officers in the navy. Commander Frank Wend is writing the story so it's certain that Paramount's going to make it on a big scale.

Incidentally, Stirling will be right in his element in a role in which he has some salt water.

Shirley Temple Shorn of All 55 Once Golden Curls

HOLLYWOOD, April 10 (AP)—Shirley Temple has shed her formal curls—all 55 of them.

Shirley's hair, naturally curly, has been brushed out and allowed to fall in soft waves, with ringlets in the end.

It is an excellent omen for an active, 12-year-old girl. It requires no special doing up, can be handled by Shirley herself and always looks neat. Shirley's hair has changed color, too. Once golden, it has darkened naturally to a rich brown.

First Lady Changes Son Jim's Bridal Date

NEW YORK, April 10 (INS)—Capt. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, today announced in Hollywood that he would marry his ex-nurse, Romelle Theresa Schneider, on Tuesday, but in New York his mother changed the date to Monday.

"He won't have me there Tuesday," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said. "I'll be there Monday, but I have a contract to be in Charlotte, N. C., on Tuesday and I can't break it."

And, since James announced that the date was contingent on his mother's presence, the wedding probably will be held on Monday.

Mrs. Roosevelt denied reports that her son was taking instructions in the Catholic faith of his bride-to-be.

"James is not a Catholic and is not becoming one," she said. "It couldn't be a Catholic marriage anyway because he is divorced. I understand it will be a civil marriage."

His mother also revealed that James will leave to join the Pacific fleet "almost immediately."

Mrs. James Roosevelt, the bridegroom-to-be's grandmother, expressed her "extreme" regret that she could not attend the wedding. "I do not know the young woman," she added, "but I am told that she is a very fine person in every way."

SHE PICKS 2 AS BANDITS, THEN FAINTS

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1941

Terrified by fear of underworld vengeance, Mrs. Max Litman of Rice ave. Revere, fainted today in a police headquarters elevator after she had identified two suspects in a lineup as bandits who robbed her and her husband in their home.

The woman, after expressing fear of retribution for her identification of two out of four suspects in the lineup, collapsed in the arms of her husband.

FORMER CONVICT

She was taken into an anteroom for treatment and in a short time was able to accompany him home.

One of the pair identified by Mrs. Litman is a former State Prison inmate. She said these two were among the four men who invaded the Litman home, bound her husband and herself and robbed them of $418.

Her husband, she said at headquarters, probably could identify the other two suspects, but when Litman looked over the lineup he could identify nobody.

IN STORE HOLDUP

The same two men were also identified by Dennis Buckley as the bandits who entered his liquor store in Broadway, Chelsea, March 17, and robbed him and a customer of $108. Buckley said both bandits had pistols or revolvers.

A partial identification of the former prison inmate as one of a bandit gang who shot and killed James W. Toohey in the Household Finance Corp. offices downtown last June 4 was made by a girl clerk from that office.

She said this suspect "looked like" one of the men. Tomorrow more of the girl clerks will view the same man in the lineup.

King, Queen Busy But Maundy Pence Given as Usual

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—England kept to her traditional observance of Holy Thursday today by giving away Maundy pence to old men and women.

The King and Queen, who usually do the job, were unable to do it this year. So the Archbishop of Canterbury distributed a total of about $60 in green, white and red purses to 46 men and 46 women in Westminster Abbey.

Each received 45 pence, a penny for each year of the King's life. They also received some additional money for food and clothing.

After identifying two suspects in the lineup at police headquarters as the men who robbed her and her husband of $418, Mrs. Max Litman of Revere hurriedly leaves . . . terrified by thoughts of gang vengeance. She collapsed after picking out the two suspects, one of whom is a former State Prison inmate.

Streamliner Wrecked, 20 Hurt

VALDOSTA, Ga., April 10 (AP)—

A score or more of passengers were injured when a Chicago-Miami streamline train was wrecked at Dupont, Ga., today.

The big steam locomotive hauling the tourist special "South Wind" ripped up about a mile of Atlantic Coast Line tracks but remained upright, four passenger cars overturned in a ditch, a fifth car left the rails but did not overturn and two others remained on the track.

Most of the injured were brought to hospitals here and first reports indicated none was dangerously hurt. About 100 passengers were aboard at the time of the accident, some 15 miles east of here.

Military Rites Given to Dog

CAMP BARKELEY, Tex., April 10 (AP)—Mike, a St. Bernard, will be given a military funeral, and when taps fades away it will be the end of a mascot that knew better but did wrong.

The 140-pound pal of the 120th medical regiment was shot yesterday by a ranchman who accused the dog of killing several sheep. Mike's soldier buddies said it wasn't so. They blamed two other dogs.

But Mike, who drew rations at the rate of 41 cents a day as an official member of Company I, was dead—just 24 hours before he was to have been given a sergeant's commission.

Saltonstall Asks El Explain Big Deficits

With commuters and officials of the 14 communities it serves up in revolt over revelations regarding Elevated finances, Gov. Saltonstall, it was revealed today, has sent a curt note to the Elevated trustees which, in effect, asks them to explain.

In a report by Atty. Timothy F. Callahan, who investigated the Elevated for the Boston Finance Commission, it is charged that all the time the trustees were compelling taxpayers to make up claimed "deficits," the road was actually making money.

Today the governor released the following communication, which he sent to Chairman Edward E. Whiting of the public trustees:

"Yesterday I received a report from the mayor of Boston and the Boston Finance Commission. This report in substance asked me to request the attorney-general of the Commonwealth to bring a suit against the public trustees, for an accounting of their administration of the affairs of the Boston Elevated Railway during public control since 1918.

ASKS SPEEDY REPLY

"I assume that the public trustees have received a copy of this report. If not I will be glad to furnish them a copy.

"Before bringing the matter formally to the attention of the attorney-general, I would like to have the public trustees give me, at their earliest convenience, their reply to the report of the Finance Commission.

"Will you kindly let me hear from you forthwith? The matter is one of impending importance because of the impending deficit that you will be shortly asking the Commonwealth to pay."

Meanwhile the Metropolitan Transit Council, representing the 14 cities and towns served by the Elevated, called on the governor and executive council to withhold payment of the latest claimed deficit of approximately $2,000,000 for the year ending March 31.

In a resolution demanding that payment be held up, members charged that the Elevated has $5,000,000 cash on hand.

The withholding of approval was asked pending an accounting of the road during public ownership from 1918 to date. A second resolution asked that Atty-Gen. Robert Bushnell make such an accounting.

TOBIN GIVES VIEWS

Both resolutions were passed at a private meeting of the council at the Parker House and were announced by Mayor Tobin.

The attorney general was also asked, in the first resolution, to determine whether the accounting procedure used in the Elevated was the same as that used by other public utilities.

Made up of mayors and chairmen of boards of selectmen of communities served by the Elevated, the Council heard a discussion of the recent report made to the Finance Commission by its special counsel, Atty. Callahan.

Speakers were Atty. Callahan, Mayor Tobin and Francis C. Welch, head of the firm of accountants who went over the Elevated's books.

MILTON COP'S KILLER ASKS FOR MERCY

For 23 minutes today at State Prison, Joseph B. Brooks, 30-year-old convicted slayer of a Milton policeman, made a plea for his life before the State Parole Board.

Brooks is condemned to die in the electric chair during the week of April 20.

Today's hearing, held in a room of the Cherry Hill section, was private, insofar as Brooks' personal appeal was concerned, and the result will not be known until the parole board, headed by Atty. Reuben L. Lurie, makes its report to Gov. Saltonstall.

Before Brooks was brought into the room the hearing was open to the press, however. During this open session the condemned man's counsel, Atty. John D. Smith of Quincy, made a plea for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment.

Smith reviewed Brooks' life from infancy up to the time he was arrested in Milton a year ago and then fatally shot Patrolman Edward F. Lee in front of Milton police station.

Police Chief John B. Shields of Milton was recorded as against a commutation, and so was Asst. Dist. Atty. George L. Rabb of Norfolk county.

Roosevelt Names 2 New War Aides

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt nominated two new assistant secretaries of war today, one designated to serve "for air."

The posts went to two New Yorkers—Robert A. Lovett and John J. McCloy. Lovett would be the assistant secretary for air. Both men have been serving as special assistants to Secretary Simon.

All's well that ends well . . . but for a time in the Hellmans' Brighton home there was excitement a-plenty. It happened when Judith, just 3, went into the bathroom to get a pail of water and the lock snapped. Judith was locked in, but loud. However, a policeman came to the rescue, and Judith and her pail of water were brought to light . . . like this.

$25,000 Suit For Alienation

SALEM, April 10—Seeking $25,000 on the ground that he lost the affections of his wife, Frederic Emerson of Malden today filed in Essex superior court an alienation of affections suit against Wallace Sanford of Lynnfield.

In the action, Emerson charges that he was deprived of the comfort, fellowship, society and aid of Mrs. Frances J. Emerson through Sanford's destruction of her affection for the husband.

Between June 1 of last year and the present date, it is alleged in the suit, Sanford arranged clandestine meetings and appointments with Mrs. Emerson and eventually "persuaded and enticed her to leave home." And she did leave last Dec. 4, the suit charges.

Lynn Youth Pleads Guilty in Extortion

George Kaminski, 24-year-old Lynn machinist, was held in $3000 for the grand jury in Lynn court today after he pleaded guilty to attempting to extort $1000 from Morris Young, Lynn furniture dealer.

Inspector William J. Murphy of Lynn police told Judge Ralph W.

Reeve that Kaminski, who lives in Western ave., had admitted writing two letters to Young, demanding the money on threat of telling police that Young had hired two men to set the $100,000 fire that destroyed the Young plant a few weeks ago.

The letters were signed "The Four Aces." A few days ago, Murphy said, Kaminski telephoned Jack Costic, business representative for Young, and made an appointment to meet Costic in a Boston night club last night.

Costic arranged with Inspector Murphy, Inspector Arthur Flanagan of Lynn police, Detectives Joseph Decker and William J. Bonner of Boston police and Lieut. Raymond Foley of the state fire marshal's office, that when Kaminski approached him, he would wipe his forehead with a handkerchief.

When Kaminski appeared, with a young woman companion, the signal was given and Kaminski and the girl were arrested. The girl was later released after police announced they were satisfied she was not involved.

Murphy said Kaminski asserted his information about the fire and "The Four Aces" business were products of his imagination.

JUDGE FINDS POLICEMAN ARRESTED WRONG MAN

All was confusion in municipal court for a time today, with defendant apologizing for pleading not guilty, and a police officer coming up with the wrong prisoner, and so on.

It went like this: Appeared on the stand, charged with the illegal sale of liquor, Philip Cloutier, 30, of the South End.

"Your honor," said Cloutier to Judge Frank W. Tomasello, "I hate to do this, but I have to plead not guilty. I'm really not."

What happened, Cloutier said, was that "a man" sold a pint of liquor on the street to Special Officer Herbert J. Langlois, in plain clothes. The "man" didn't have the change, and Cloutier made change.

"Then, much to my amazement, I found this gentleman was a police officer," said Cloutier, indicating Langlois. Langlois proved his police status by arresting Cloutier.

"But I didn't sell him the liquor," Cloutier insisted.

"Not guilty," said Judge Tomasello.

Where was the man who really made the sale, Officer Langlois didn't arrest him. He paid the money to Cloutier, got his change back, thought Cloutier was his man.

ONE OF AMERICA'S LARGEST CLOTHING CHAINS

300 CHURCHES HERE JOIN IN SOLEMN RITE

Maundy Thursday was observed with solemn high masses today in more than 300 Catholic and Anglican churches throughout Greater Boston.

Colorful processions followed masses in Catholic churches of the archdiocese.

CHANTING OF TENEBRAE

Throughout the remainder of the day and evening there will be observed the pious custom of Holy Thursday pilgrimages, the traditional round of visits to seven churches by hundreds of thousands of worshippers to kneel before flower-decked altars, where the pre-consecrated Host is on exposition.

Because there is only one mass on Good Friday, in most churches Holy Communion will be distributed before and during the mass.

The chanting of the Tenebrae, the ancient Jewish lament, which began in many Protestant and Catholic churches last night, will continue tonight and tomorrow night.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

On Good Friday morning there will be only one service in Catholic churches, the mass of the pre-sanctified. After mass the churches will be stripped of all decoration and the door of the empty tabernacle will be thrown open, symbolic of the death of Christ.

In both Catholic and Protestant churches solemn three-hour services will be held from noon until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, featuring sermons on Christ's crucifixion. Stations of the Cross, sermons and veneration of the cross also will be held in Catholic churches during the afternoon and evening services.

PASSOVER OPENING

President Jacob E. Lerner of Temple Emanu-El Moshe, Brighton, announced that the opening of Passover at the temple tonight will be marked by a community seder at which Rabbi S. Shubow, Cantor Bernard Radin and Abraham Mitell will officiate.

Tomorrow Rabbi Shubow will preach on "We Were Slaves in Egypt," and on Sunday his topic will be "The Seder in Our Religious Life." Other officers in charge of the congregation are Samuel Schiff, Schiff, Simon Brodsky, Jacob Prince, Benjamin Beeman and Dr. Samuel Goldman.

Avoid Army Trucks, Car Drivers Warned

Motorists were warned today not to try to cut into convoys of Army trucks now operating extensively in the Ft. Devens and Camp Edwards areas.

The warning was issued by the Massachusetts Safety Council, which designated an area within 25 miles of each cantonment, where maneuvers are being held. It was estimated motorized Army equipment at Camp Edwards will reach 4000, and there will be 2000 at Ft. Devens, where the Army is now traveling about 1,000,000 miles a month.

Easter Basket May Help Rouse Girl Long in Coma

PHILADELPHIA, April 10 (AP)—An Easter basket was prepared today for Ruth Stevenson, 23, who is showing signs of awakening from a three and one-half-month coma in Temple University Hospital.

Ruth's sisters, Mrs. Edward McGinn and Irene, Marion and Lillian, made up the basket of eggs to be delivered to her in the hope that it will further stimulate her recovery.

The girl was critically injured in an automobile accident last Christmas eve. For more than three months she lay unconscious in the hospital, but in the past 10 days she has recognized her father and brothers and sisters at her bedside. Hospital officials said she was much better, but warned against "false hopes."

Girl Killer in 1912 Making His 16th Plea for Pardon

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 10 (AP)—At least George Henderson is persistent.

Sentenced to be hanged in 1912 for fatally clubbing Fern Elaine Davis when she rejected his attentions, the man two years later got his sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Since then he has made 15 futile attempts to have the state pardon board free him. His 16th plea will be heard later this month.

GEN. HUGH DRUM (LEFT) AND GEN. JAMES G. WOODRUFF
Talk Over Plans in Coastal Defense Maneuvers

N. E. COAST ARTILLERY UNITS BATTLE MYTHICAL INVADERS

A paper battle against mythical invaders was started along the New England coast today while at Camp Edwards and Ft. Devens arrangements were completed for observance of Easter Sunday.

Coast artillery units at dawn began their first major war games restricted entirely to orders and strategic moves by officers and fort commanders.

Lieut.-Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the First Army, flew here from LaGuardia Field, N. Y., in an Army transport plane to observe the operations.

Gen. Drum said he hoped to extend his visit to Portland, Me. The maneuvers, he said, would operate from Portland south along the coast to the eastern tip of Long Island and without the aid of the major units of the Navy.

Describing the operations as "sort of war games," he added that a good portion of the program would be conducted tonight.

Gen. Drum was met at the airport by Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff, commanding general of the First Corps Area, and his staff.

Maj.-Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commander of the First Coast Artillery District, met Gen. Drum at the Army Base.

The problem handed the defense forces was to go into action on the following situation:

"Information indicates assumed enemy and naval forces may subject the coast to minor attacks. Our naval forces have organized distant air patrol, off-shore and inshore patrol forces. Available elements of General Headquarters Air Force under control of First Army will supplement naval reconnaissance and organize aircraft warning service."

"You will at once establish New England Sector to include all troops now in First Coast Artillery district in accordance with plans previously furnished by you. Move all available harbor defense troops to man positions on existing armament to provide for defense against sea and air attacks."

Meanwhile, at Camp Edwards it was ordered that all soldiers of the Yankee Division will be excused from duty from noon to 3 p. m. tomorrow, Good Friday, to attend reveille Sunday. Protestant chaplains will be in charge of the Catholic and Protestant services. The camp theater will be closed all day.

At Ft. Devens it was decided to permit civilians to attend the Easter sunrise services to begin after exercises, which will start on conclusion of the address of Pope Pius XII to be broadcast on the main parade grounds.

Jewish soldiers at the fort will be served kosher food while observing the Passover holiday by arrangement with the Jewish Welfare Board, it was announced by Rabbi Joseph Warren of Lowell.

Ex-Harvard Teacher Suicide

Through a coroner's report today it was learned in Boston that Edwin Packard Halsey, 38, former instructor of American history at Harvard, shot and killed himself yesterday at Haverford, Pa.

Returning a verdict of suicide, Coroner W. J. Rushong of Haverford said that Halsey had overworked on a thesis that he hoped would bring him the degree of doctor of philosophy.

The suicide occurred, Coroner Rushong said, at the palatial home of the instructor's father-in-law, Caspar Wistar Norris, the historian, sending a pistol bullet into his brain.

10 U. S. EXPERTS MAKE GASOLINE FROM COAL

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Success of experiments in this country to develop gasoline and oil from America's virtually inexhaustible coal reserves was announced today by the Federal Bureau of Mines.

The bureau declared that known United States coal reserves were sufficient to supply the nation's oil needs through the new process for about 3000 years, at the present rate of consumption.

Some bureau of mines experts have declared the present supply of petroleum in sight by known production methods is sufficient to last only 15 years more, although other oil specialists reckon the underground supply to be considerably larger. On the other hand, coal reserves were estimated at more than 3,000,000,000,000 tons—enough, the bureau said, to yield upward of 3,800,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

The hydrogenation process of synthesizing oil from coal already is in use commercially in Europe, especially in Germany, and the technique was applied to American coals in the Bureau's Pittsburgh laboratories.

While definitely establishing the process as practicable, and in certain circumstances advisable, the government technicians did not estimate the cost of gasoline and oil produced from coal on a perfected quantity output basis. From experience in Germany and England, however, it has been indicated that the cost would be considerably greater than through use of crude petroleum.

Tests already have been made of 13 varieties, and the report said bituminous coals, such as those obtained from the Pittsburg bed,

Black Creek bed in Alabama and the lower Sunnyside bed, Utah, can yield an average of two tons of oil for each three tons of coal mined, and that the plentiful lignite coals, as in North Dakota, can produce a ton of oil for each three tons of coal.

The yields of gasoline were reported to be from 78 to 168 gallons per ton of coal mined.

Ford, CIO Called on To End Strike Now

DETROIT, April 10 (AP) Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner called on the Ford Motor Co. and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) today to accept "without further delay" a three-point proposal for settling the eight-day-old strike at the company's Rouge plant.

He issued a statement in which he said that in the interests of national defense and preservation of law and order he was submitting a "practical and fair" plan with the knowledge that it does not satisfy the desires of either the company or union.

"All employees shall be returned to their jobs without discrimination at once, including five of the eight men. (The Governor referred to the men whose discharge precipitated the strike.) Because of an agreement the Ford Motor Co. made with me not to reopen their plant during mediation, I am asking James F. Duesey to arbitrate the cases of the other three men—Ray Pilon, Jack Willkie and Andy Dewar.

"Grievance procedure established before the strike shall be resumed. Further, I myself, representing the state shall appoint a committee consisting of Mr. Duesey, representing the federal government, R. J. Thomas and Allan Haywood, representing the UAW-CIO, and Harry Bennett and one other Ford official representing the company, to continue to meet and settle any other matters of dispute which might arise before the NLRB election.

"Both parties, likewise, agree to do all in their power to expedite the holding of the labor board election. For example, the union should agree to an election within the plant and the company should agree to furnish payroll records."

At the same time, these officials said the defense employment peak would be reached in the late summer or early fall of 1942.

While declaring the levels this June or July will exceed the 1929 employment figure of 37,470,000, the experts declined to speculate how much. Besides agriculture, all estimates excluded consideration of the nation's rapidly increasing military and naval forces which in February hit a record peacetime high of 1,145,000.

Employment increased from January to February by 265,000, it was pointed out. In February, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 35,594,000 persons were at work in the United States, compared with the January figure of 35,319,000.

At the same time, these officials said the defense employment peak would be reached in the late summer or early fall of 1942.

POPE CONDUCTS HOLY THURSDAY CEREMONY

VATICAN CITY, April 10 (AP)—The bells of Rome's 420 churches sounded in reverent chorus this morning, as they have for hundreds of years, in commemoration of Holy Thursday, the day upon which Christ instituted the Holy Eucharist.

In the Sistine chapel Giampaolo Cardinal Pignatelli, Di Belmonte, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals, whose 90th birthday was today, celebrated mass in the presence of Pope Pius XII.

At the end of the service the Pontiff performed the traditional Holy Thursday ceremony of carrying the Eucharist out of the Sistine chapel. Borne on a small throne, flanked by nobles and Swiss guardsmen and followed by cardinals, Pope Pius led a procession to the Pauline chapel across the Sala Regia.

Reverently he placed the chalice on the tabernacle where it will remain until tomorrow, Good Friday. The Sistine choir sang "Gloria in Excelsis" and the bells of St. Peter's rang out.

Then suddenly the choir and bells were hushed and Catholics here, as throughout the world, began the mournful observance of Christ's passion and death.

Announcement was made today that Pope Pius will deliver his Easter message Sunday at 1 p. m. (6 a. m., Boston Time) and his words, in Italian, will be broadcast on short wave lengths of 31.05 and 19.81 meters.

Death Chair Ban Bills Rejected

The annual drive to abolish capital punishment in Massachusetts suffered its first setback today at the State House when the joint judiciary committee recommended rejection of three bills dealing with the subject.

A compromise measure to give juries the power of recommending life imprisonment in convictions for first degree murder was among the three.

Earlier in the week the legislative committee on legal affairs approved legislation to substitute a lethal gas chamber for the electric chair.

The subcommittee also recommended passage of a bill to give state laborers with five years' service an 18-day vacation each year and those of 10 years' service a 24-day vacation.

Leaders of Massachusetts labor appeared before the legislative committee on labor and industry today to play a bill that would provide a 10-to-30-day wait between the time a strike call was taken and the time the men actually could quit.

Kenneth I. Taylor, legislative agent for the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, said the bill was "Fifth Column legislation" and would encourage strikes.

"If the polite name of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce was not on this bill, I would say it was designed in Berlin, Moscow or Rome," he said. "It would make relations between labor and industry worse instead of better."

Firemen's organizations urged the Massachusetts legislature's committee on pensions today to approve a pension of two-thirds of their salary for firemen forced to retire by injuries suffered on duty.

Love me, love my dog.
Mrs. Mary Costa, 38, said Mrs. Freda Lahage, 40, didn't love the Costa dog, and that she slapped her neighbor over the noggin with a broomstick.

That is the story she told Chief Justice G. Delano Putnam in municipal court today, when she had Mrs. Lahage arraigned on a charge of assault and battery.

Special Officer James F. Hanley explained that Mrs. Costa's pet dog wandered from her second-floor apartment on Harrison ave., South End, to the third-floor quarters of Mrs. Lahage.

In words that left no doubt as to their meaning, Mr. Lahage ordered the pup to get on. Angered by the tones in which her dog was addressed, Mrs. Costa took Mrs. Lahage severely to task.

There ensued a scuffle in which Mrs. Costa was struck on the head with a broomhandle, inflicting a cut that required three stitches. Mrs. Lahage testified the blow was accidental. She was fined $25.

Already On The Job!

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1941

...and thousands more Chevrolet trucks are on the way, to meet the needs of National Defense!

This nation has summoned all Industry to its side and given Industry the biggest job in the world—the job of producing for National Defense.

To Chevrolet, months ago, in the earliest days of the emergency, there came an urgent call for trucks—and still more trucks—for the U. S. Army.

Today, it is a pleasure to report to the American people that great numbers of Chevrolet trucks are already on the job at Army camps in all parts of the country.

Thousands of additional Chevrolet trucks are on the way. . . . Other thousands will continue to roll off our assembly lines as long as they are needed. . . . Smoothly, steadily, in ever-increasing numbers, to help meet one of the most vital needs of modern defense—an army equipped to move swiftly over any type of ground.

America has helped to make the Chevrolet Division of General Motors one of the largest manufacturing units in the world; and, of course, America can count on Chevrolet to contribute its full share to the biggest job in the world—National Defense.

CHEVROLET

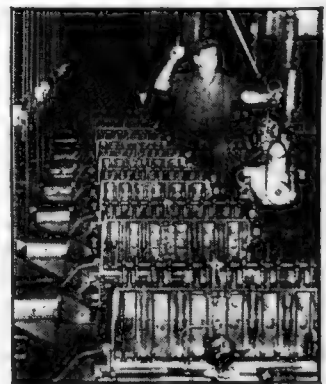

CHEVROLET MOTOR DIVISION, General Motors Corporation, DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Former Jonesville Chevrolet and Fisher Body employees, now serving with the armed forces of the U. S. A., inspect newly delivered Chevrolet trucks of Camp Beaufort, La.

The Chevrolet 4 x 4 is widely used Army truck. Long lines are shown awaiting shipping instructions at the Oakland, California, Chevrolet Assembly Plant. A concrete example of the part Chevrolet is playing in providing this country with an army equipped to move swiftly over any type of ground.

Placing motors on test blocks at Chevrolet plant, Flint, Mich. Motors are shipped from this plant to be assembled in U. S. Army trucks of Chevrolet Assembly Plants throughout the country, in addition to assembly operations at Flint.

The modern military maxim is, "Men without machines are as good as dead." America wants both for adequate defense. Here men of the U. S. Army are lined up for a drive-away of new trucks from the Chevrolet Assembly Plant at Atlanta, Ga.

bomb-seared capital of Yugoslavia, had been entered by Nazi troops.

BRITISH RUSH TROOPS

Advices reaching Bern, Switzerland said British transports and supply ships were bringing fresh reinforcements into southern Greek ports.

German press dispatches indicated the British Expeditionary Force—estimated at 300,000 men—was massed in the vicinity of Mt. Olympus, 60 miles southwest of Salonika, near the Aegean Sea coast.

Other reports said the British were completing a new defense line stretching across the Greek peninsula from a point south of Salonika to the Albanian port of Chirmani, on the Adriatic Sea.

Italian dispatches early today said the German and Italian armies, driving into southern Yugoslavia from opposite directions, were "on the point" of joining hands.

The meeting was expected to take place not far from the Albanian-Yugoslav border west of Skopje, strategic city at the head of the Vardar river valley leading to Salonika.

German mechanized troops were reported last night to have reached Tetovo, about 23 miles west of Skopje and only 15 miles from Italian advance elements at Brad, just inside the Yugoslav frontier.

DESPERATE EFFORT

The Yugoslavs, meanwhile, were making a desperate effort to cut through the Italian lines in Albania and join hands with the Greeks near Lake Ochrida, but they were said to be still some 50 miles from their objective.

One Yugoslav column, driving down along the Albanian coast, was reported attempting to force a crossing of the Mali river, about 31 miles north of the Albanian capital of Tirana, capturing Scutari and Alessio in a 35-mile advance.

Military observers expressed belief, however, that the British navy must act quickly to force a passage of the Straits of Otranto between Italy and Albania and open a sea lane to Yugoslavia if military aid and American war material is to reach her before she may be overwhelmed.

There was no indication of the number of Greek troops still holding out against the Germans in isolated Macedonia.

TROOPS WITHDRAW

It was estimated the Greeks had concentrated some 300,000 men along the Bulgarian frontier some time ago but Greek reports indicated a large number of these troops were withdrawn in time to avoid being cut off.

At Athens radio broadcast last night declared the possibility of a Yugoslav retreat (exposing the Greek left flank) as well as the cutting off of Greek forces in Macedonia and Thrace had been foreseen by the Greek high command.

The broadcast added: "The decisive battle will be given where strategic conditions demand it. The war goes on and will go on. We know how to fight and will not be influenced by unfavorable turns. Nothing can shake us until final victory."

The Nazi thrust into Thrace and Macedonia, however, effectively severed overland communications between Greece and Turkey, Britain's thus far passive ally.

Berlin Gives Allies 2 Weeks in Balkans

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 10 (INS)—Nazi Germany tonight gave Yugoslavia, Greece and the British in North Africa a maximum of two weeks' resistance as the powerful German armies struck behind a cloak of official secrecy at vital objectives in the Balkans.

All indications in Berlin tonight were that the attacking forces were making steady progress. Resistance was inferred, however, from an authentic statement saying the Nazis were waging a "hard drive."

Eighty thousand Greek troops trapped in Thrace have been taken prisoner and the number may reach 100,000 it was said.

A new surprise is brewing, it was said, expected to seal the fate of Yugoslavia, perhaps by Easter, while Greece and the British in North Africa are expected to collapse in less time than it took to subjugate Poland. The Polish conflict lasted for 18 days. Germany's Balkan drive has been under way for five days.

NEAR EGYPTIAN FRONTIER

German troops in North Africa are now approaching the Egyptian frontier, it was said.

Qualified quarters asserted that Germany's Balkan armies had made satisfactory advances in all sectors. The campaign is meeting all expectations, it was said.

By this Sunday, German authorities declared, the forces operating under Marshal Gen. Sigmund von List hope at least to complete conquest of Yugoslavia and "pin the British down in Greece."

Meanwhile, German military officials rejoiced over the strategy which enabled a victorious drive down the Struma valley and the capture of Salonika. This maneuver successfully trapped a Greek army in western Thrace.

Today—fifth day of the new war—German pincers were being thrown around several Yugoslav army groups in a vast maneuver to "chok" southern Serbia," German sources revealed.

At the same time, Yugoslav forces in Croatia apparently were falling victim to a huge new pincer movement by the northern German Balkan army.

This great maneuver, according to information in Berlin, was unfolding from Marburg in northern Yugoslavia down toward Zagreb.

At the same time, it was stated, an Italian army in the Julian Alps (northern Yugoslavia) was stretching from the former Austrian-Italian border to a point above Trieste, bringing pressure on the Serbs from the rear.

German authorities said that maneuvers to slice off the northern and southern parts of Yugoslavia would narrow down the battlefield to a small area which then would be exposed to a "systematic, crushing squeeze play."

Greece to Fight On Despite Nazi Gains

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, April 10—Greece will fight on until final victory is won despite German occupation of Salonika and Nazi advances in Macedonia, Athens government authorities declared today.

Contrary to German claims, Greek military headquarters insisted that the troops cut off in Thrace by the Nazi capture of Salonika are still fighting.

The exact number of these troops is not known, but it is believed to be comparatively small. Original Anglo-Greek strategy called for early abandonment of Salonika and western Thrace. It was not believed likely the high command would have permitted isolation of any great number of men.

An official communique proclaimed that the German advances had been more than offset by terrific Nazi losses in the mechanized offensive.

34 Die in Nazi Birmingham Raid

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., April 10 (AP)—German planes bombed this important Midlands industrial town last night, causing what was officially described as "considerable damage."

Casualties totalled 34 persons killed and 90 injured. German planes, kept at great height by a searchlight attack barrage ever flung up here, roared over in waves at intervals of a few moments.

Incendiary bombs caused one of major fires and 200 others, all of which were brought under control swiftly.

PAUSE FOR A REST—Their rifles piled and heavy kits unloaded, members of a Slav infantry regiment take time out to rest during a tactical march near the Hungarian border. Today Nazi forces reportedly drove a Yugoslav force out of southwestern Hungary in fierce battle.

AMERICANS TELL HOW GREEKS RAZED $1,500,000 OIL PLANTS

ATHENS, Greece, April 10 (AP)—The Greek rearguard blew up more than $1,500,000 worth of Salonika oil installations belonging to the Steaua-Roamana Co., in which Standard Oil of New Jersey has an interest, Arthur Lanckton, 27-year-old oil executive, said today upon his arrival from the Nazi-occupied port.

Bombers Blast Berlin's Heart

pyrotechnics of exploding shells.

Bombs burst beneath the famous trees of Unter Den Linden, now just beginning to blossom with the spring and in various parts of the city's central districts fires broke out from incendiary bombs.

Official announcements, which admitted virtually complete loss of the Opera House stressed the damage done in residential areas and at hospitals and state buildings. No military objectives were hit, it was said.

Portions of the Unter den Linden, which slices through the heart of Berlin from the famed Brandenburg Gate toward the Lustgarten to the east, were roped off for many hours as the result of bomb damage.

Firemen worked throughout the night and early morning to bring blazes under control. Large crowds gathered to witness results of a full-scale air attack upon their city were cordoned off behind emergency police lines.

Near the State Library, a building forming part of Berlin University, virtually adjoining the Kaiser Wilhelm I Palace, was hit and damaged.

The latest official visitor to Bellevue Palace was Foreign Minister Yozuka Matsugata of Japan. Some months ago Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov lived there on a journey to Berlin.

As a result of the raid, officials of the State Opera announced performances would be suspended for an indefinite period.

An official communique said two Berlin hospitals were hit by incendiaries.

Iraq Parliament To Pick New Regent

VICHI, France, April 10 (AP)—A French information office dispatch from Baghdad today said the Iraqi parliament would meet tomorrow to elect a new regent replacing Emir Abdul Ilah, who is reported to have fled after Friday's coup d'état. Iraqi king is Faisal II, who was six years old on May 2, Abdul is his uncle.

When it was learned that the Germans were nearing Salonika, Lanckton said United States Consul John D. Johnson and Vice-Consul Edmund A. Gullion advised all Americans to leave.

Charles House, director of the American farm school, and his wife decided to stay, but the rest of the colony started for Athens.

In the American party were Lanckton, George Gardner, assistant director of the American Farm School, Mrs. Gardner and their two children; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Riggs of the American Anatolia College; and M. Everett Smith, a teacher.

Behind them smoke clouds from the burning oil stores and stores belled into the sky.

CITY IN FLAMES

Everything of military value in the port was destroyed before the Greeks abandoned the city to the Germans, Emmanuel Spanakis, Associated Press correspondent, declared on his arrival here.

Spanakis, the last newspaperman to leave the city before the Germans entered, declared:

"I left Salonika on the last ship to leave the port.

"Flames were roarin hundreds of feet into the air from blazing warlike sea, oil tanks and airport facilities.

"Blasts from exploding dynamite roared across the deserted harbor as cranes and everything of military value were blown up. "Hours later the flames still could be seen from a distance of more than 60 miles."

WOUNDED REMOVED

Spanakis told of the early bombless German aerial offensive against Salonika. Apparently they were trying to overawe the defenders without causing any destruction.

"German planes were over Salonika continually," Spanakis said. "We had six or seven alarms a day and although no bombs were dropped, the people spent most of the days in air raid shelters. Many even would not come out to eat."

"Salonians learned for the first time that their city was doomed late Tuesday afternoon when a communique announced that the Germans had broken through the Yugoslav lines in the Vardar Valley.

"Almost immediately, hospitals bundled their wounded into ambulances and left the city. Military authorities requisitioned boats of all kinds and every automobile to move military stores."

U. S. Troops To Defend Greenland

for the defense of the American continent.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that while the Danish government at present is powerless to act in protection of its territory in the Western Hemisphere "we propose to make sure that when the German invasion of Denmark has ended, Greenland will remain a Danish colony."

"Meanwhile, we earnestly hope for the quick liberation of Denmark from her present invaders," the President said.

An official State Department announcement said: "The agreement recognizes that as a result of the present European war there is danger that Greenland may be converted into a point of aggression against nations of the American continent, and accepts the responsibility on behalf of the United States of assisting in maintenance of the present status."

"The agreement, after explicitly recognizing the Danish sovereignty over Greenland, proceeds to grant to the United States the right to locate and construct airplane landing fields and facilities for the defense of Greenland and for the defense of the American continent."

President Roosevelt's full statement follows:

"Yesterday we signed an agreement with the Danish minister in Washington, who acts on behalf of the King of Denmark, as sovereign of Greenland, including Greenland in our system of cooperative hemisphere defense."

"This agreement was signed on the anniversary of the day on which German troops invaded Denmark."

"Last May the Greenland committee requested the United States to keep in mind the exposed position of the Danish flag in Greenland. I at once offered to make available relief, if necessary, and to assure a continued flow of necessary supplies for the island."

"The present step is a new proof of our continuing friendliness to Denmark. Under the present circumstances the government of Denmark, cannot, of course, act in respect of its territory in the Western Hemisphere, but we propose to make sure that when the German invasion of Denmark has ended, Greenland will remain a Danish colony. Meanwhile, we earnestly hope for the quick liberation of Denmark from her present invaders."

The decision to defend Greenland gives the United States a vitally important base of aerial operations virtually in the middle of the North Atlantic and establishes an advance outpost of American defense nearer to Europe than has ever existed before in peacetime.

SAFETY OF U. S. HANGS ON DEFENSE OF VITAL BOSTON AREA; ELABORATE PLANS OUTLINED

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Boston's first line of defense in case of invasion lies hundreds of miles to sea, stretching from newly established Atlantic bases at Newfoundland to Trinidad.

Upon this line, from which Navy warships and planes will operate, depends the protection of the heavily industrialized northeast with its teeming population and key armament plants.

With 80 per cent of its more than 8,000,000 persons residing within 50 miles of the coast, New England's defense, now being rapidly expanded by both Army and Navy, is vital to the protection of the entire country.

High officials of the Navy's Bureau of Operations, charged with the job of directing fleet operations, outlined to Rep. Bates (D., Massachusetts) how they expect to block any attempt at attacks or landing of troops in New England.

OPERATE FROM BASES
 While the Army takes over the assignment of defending shore establishments, general naval operations from the new Atlantic bases are aimed at spotting any approaching enemy and stopping them.

Inside this line are numerous scattered bases along the coast which Navy patrol ships and planes and Coast Guard planes operate.

In addition, at least 11 new section bases for scores more of coastal craft are to be built within a year.

Backing from Portsmouth, N.H., to Long Island Sound, at Boston, Narragansett Bay, and New London, Conn. are bases for operations of battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

It is expected here that the new naval district at Newport and Quonset Point, R. I., will be the principal Atlantic base for the fleet.

Should sea operations fail to stop an invader, harbors will be obstructed with submarine nets and mines and the Army's coast artillery called into action.

Submarine net depots have been established at Newport, R. I., South Boston, New London, Conn., and Portsmouth, N. H. Station bases have been designated for refueling and supplying patrol craft, mine layers, mine sweepers and torpedo boats at New London, Newport, Woods Hole, Mass., Boston, Portland, Rockland and La Moine, Me.

QUONSET POINT IMPORTANT
 Major aviation operations will be at Quonset Point and Squantum, Mass., with the Coast Guard operating from Salem, Mass.

Bates declared Quonset Point was "the most important part of the whole New England defense system," asserting the Navy's northeastern air fleet and aircraft carriers would operate from there.

In about another month the Army contemplates having at least 16,300 trained troops—harbor defense and anti-aircraft units—in forts along the New England coast. One-fourth of these, 4,000, will be stationed in Boston Harbor at Ft. Andrews, Banks, Revere, Dawes, Duvall and Heath; 3,200 at Ft. Michie, Wright and Terry of Long Island; 3,200 at Ft. Adams, Gettysburg, Greble, Wetherill and Philip Kearney in Narragansett Bay; 1,000 at Ft. Rodman, New Bedford, Mass.; 3,200 at Ft. Leavitt, McKinley, Preble and Williams, Portland, Me.; and 1,300 at Ft. Constitution, Foster and Stark, Portsmouth, N. H.

About 10,000,000 has been spent to modernize facilities at these forts. Allocations of funds not disclosed by the Army, have been made for installing modern weapons, up to 16-inch guns which fire 28 miles.

ARMY OF 80,500
 If Army schedules are followed here will be 80,500 men in New England by June. In addition to 28,000 at Camp Edwards, Mass., and 23,000 at Ft. Devens, Mass., there will be at Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., 3500; Bangor, Me., 2100 (air corps); Windsor Locks, Ct., 1700 (air corps); Manchester, N. H., 2500 (air corps); and Westover Field, Mass., 3600.

The Army's major air base at Westover Field, Chicopee, Mass., and its auxiliaries established or being established, at Manchester, Bangor and Windsor Locks will furnish additional defense forces.

General Who Led Singing Aussies Seized

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—The British acknowledged today that one of the six generals captured by a German-Italian force at El Echili, Libya, was Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Nugent O'Connor, one of the best tacticians in the British army.

Sir Richard was one of the right-hand men of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander in chief of the British forces in the Middle East.

In a radio broadcast Feb. 9, Prime Minister Churchill singled out O'Connor and Lieut.-Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson as the two men responsible for carrying out Wavell's offensive which drove the Italian forces out of Egypt and Eastern Libya.

O'Connor was made a Knight Commander of the Bath for his part in the drive. Sir Henry was similarly decorated.

It was Gen. O'Connor who led the Australian troops in operations around Bengasi when the Aussies went into action singing "The Wizard of Oz."

Nazis Claim Toll Of 8 More Ships

BERLIN, April 10 (INS)—An official announcement today said German planes last night "effectively raided" an English port and also an important British industrial center.

In addition, it was claimed, German planes sank eight merchant vessels totaling 46,000 tons and severely damaged three others aggregating 19,000 tons as well as a British destroyer during the past 24 hours.

These British losses, the announcement said, included a vessel of 29,000 tons.

This ship was described officially as a fully loaded enemy transport, which was sunk yesterday afternoon.

BRITAIN MAY OUST ENVOYS IN BALKANS

By MERRILL MUELLER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 10—Only an Allied victory on the Greek front can save the Balkan situation for Britain and prevent a harsh—although not dangerous—reaction at home, it became apparent today.

Unless the German drive is stopped by some strategy undisclosed thus far, military and diplomatic heads will roll.

The inevitable result, according to well-informed circles, is that Britain will profit by another setback. Because, it was said, steps must and will be taken to compensate for a defeat in Greece and the continued retreat in Libya.

Some military observers believe that the Allies were caught unprepared by the speed of the German advance in Greece. Prime Minister Winston Churchill admitted in the House of Commons yesterday that Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell was surprised by the speed and striking power of German mechanized forces in Libya.

BATTLE LINE SET

Now, with British resistance stiffening, experts believe that a line will be consolidated from the Greco-Albanian borders to a point on the Aegean coast southwest of Salonika.

This will give the Allies three natural mountain ranges on which to install their defenses. If the Germans break these defenses, however, the Allies would be trapped at the bottom of Greece.

Should this occur, the miracle of a "second Dunkirk" is virtually out of the question, due to the presence of Italo-German naval forces and weakness of the Royal Air Force's eastern command in the face of strong Axis air detachments.

DANGER SEEN

The situation thus is fraught with danger. The men in the street, determined to carry on the war with no loss of determination, is frankly asking:

"Whose stupidity was responsible for making the Allies so badly informed as to the size and disposition of German forces in Africa and Bulgaria?"

Added to all this is the fact that Turkey no longer is looked upon hopefully. She has "sold the Allies short," British circles believe, and cannot or will not enter the war as in her own defense—which gives the Germans precisely the advantage they want.

Realistic quarters deprecate "wishful thinking" about American aid to the Allies by the Red Sea route. The slight knowledge of geography is sufficient to show the terrific delays involved and the tremendous advantages that Germany now enjoys with regard to communications and supplies.

20 Roosevelt Asks Power to Take Over Foreign Ships in U. S. Ports

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 10—President Roosevelt today asked Congress for broad powers to requisition any foreign-owned vessels lying idle in American ports.

In a special message, the President declared "it is obvious that our own ultimate defense will be rendered futile if the growing shortage of shipping facilities is not arrested."

Immediate object of the requested legislation will be to legalize acquisition for operation of the 39 Danish vessels recently seized, as well as the 26 Italian and two German merchant craft taken over because of sabotage efforts by their crews.

The President asked for authority broad enough to acquire any ship, provided just compensation is made to the owner. It was anticipated that French vessels, including the luxury super liner Normandie, might be taken over, although the French ambassador to Washington, Gaston Henri-Haye, recently said he had been given assurances they would not.

CITES SHIP NEEDS

That the President regarded this legislation as most urgent was obvious from the fact the White House dispatched his message to Congress on the day the body of Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas was lying in state in the Senate chamber.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said the White House had acted only after consultation with the late Sen. Sheppard's colleague, Sen. Connally of Texas, who is acting majority leader.

After noting the futility of prosecuting defense of British aid efforts without adequate shipping, the President continued:

"It is also obvious that in the inability to remove accumulating materials from our ports can only result in stoppage of production with attendant unemployment and suspension of production contracts. It is therefore essential both to our defense plans and to our domestic economy, that we shall not permit the continuance of the immobilization in our harbors of shipping facilities."

POINTS TO SHORTAGE

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 authorizes the Maritime Commission, "whenever the President shall proclaim the security of the national defense makes it advisable or during any national emergency declared by proclamation," to requisition any craft owned by American citizens.

"There does not appear to be any comparable provision with respect to foreign-owned vessels lying idle in our ports," he said.

"In view of the growing shortage of available tonnage split to our national needs, I am satisfied, after consultation with the heads of the interested departments and agencies of the government that we should have statutory authority to take over any such vessels as our needs may require, subject of course to the payment of just compensation."

FURNISHES DRAFT

The President transmitted with his message the draft of a proposed resolution to accomplish his desires in the interests of speed. Funds from the $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriations would be used in requisitioning foreign vessels.

At a recent press conference, Mr. Roosevelt placed the seized Italian and German ships in a different category from other foreign vessels. He said that in his opinion these ships were liable to forfeiture because their crews, in direct violation of American law, sabotaged the vessels by wrecking machinery and attempting to set fire to them.

Recall of the Italian naval attaché in Washington, Admiral Alberto Lais, was demanded of Rome by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull following the sabotage attempts on the direct charge that Lais had directed those activities.

Poll Tax Exemption Favored for Draftees

State Senators expressed approval today for a bill to exempt from poll taxes all young men enrolled in the armed services.

Only opposition showing in the first test of strength in which the bill was favorably received came from senators who feared the measure was so broadly drawn it would exempt anyone on the federal payroll.

ITALY ADMITS BRITISH TAKE MASSAUA

ROME, April 10 (AP)—The Italian high command acknowledged today the loss to the British of Massaua, chief Italian Red Sea port, but said the Italians had put the harbor out of service by obstructions.

At the same time the Italians reported that one of their submarines had torpedoed a British cruiser of the Liverpool class in the eastern Mediterranean.

(The Liverpool is listed in Jane's fighting ships as one of a class of eight $100-ton cruisers carrying a normal complement of 700 men each)—Editor's note.

On the North African front, the daily war bulletin said, Italian and German troops continuing operations east of recaptured Derna, encircled and captured 2000 British prisoners—including six generals. Much war material also was reported captured.

NAZI 'DUMMY' FIRMS IN U. S. PROBED

By LEE RASHALL

International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1941, by International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 10—Startling facts indicating that Nazi Germany is waging a concerted undercover "economic blitzkrieg" on the United States through an ingenious network of "dummy" corporations has been unearthed in an investigation by the Department of Justice, it was revealed today.

A sweeping inquiry has been launched into the chemical industry in particular because of indications that directly or indirectly German-dominated organizations are:

1—Maintaining a grip on the patents as well as the productive capacity in America of such vital national defense chemicals as anti-shock serum, anti-pneumonia serum and other serums to combat various epidemics against which wartime armies must take special precautions.

2—Using the American patent system to break the British blockade by filling orders in Latin American countries for German-patented chemical products which Germany itself can no longer ship across the Atlantic because of the blockade. Britain itself, it was indicated, has been in the paradoxical position of buying some of these vital chemical supplies from American concerns linked to the German patent pool.

3—Arranging for German type of packaging of chemical shipments from American concerns to Latin American countries in order to procure these markets for Germany during and after the present war.

SUBPOENAS ISSUED

In connection with the inquiry, subpoenas were issued for a complete examination of the records of the Swiss Bank Corp. in New York city; the Schering Corp. of Bloomfield, N. J., and two other firms—all of which are heavily interested in the chemical business in the United States and throughout Latin America. These are merely the first of a large number of firms whose records will be subpoenaed, it was disclosed.

International News Service learned that the investigation seeks to ascertain if the Swiss Bank Corp. which served as a medium for the German economic stranglehold on segments of the American metals industry in the last World War and became involved in a government bribery scandal still pending in court, is being utilized again today to obtain German control of certain gigantic chemical and pharmaceutical enterprises that have been regarded as strictly American-owned companies.

Documentary data in the inquiry has already been submitted to federal investigators for the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice, headed by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Thurman Arnold, International News Service learned.

UNDER BERLIN'S THUMB

It indicates that through a labyrinth of international cartels, interlocking corporations and patent deals, a number of self-styled American firms in a broad field of industries—many of them vital to national defense—are actually operating under the thumb of Berlin.

Since most of these firms turn over a handsome profit annually, the question has been raised in the minds of federal officials as to whether at least a part of such accumulated dollar surpluses may not have been diverted for the maintenance of Germany's vast propaganda machine in this country or the payment of certain special German agents.

Among industries in which Department of Justice operatives have picked up trails of German undercover penetration are: Chemicals and drug supplies; optical goods; non-ferrous metals, and even cosmetics (many an American woman may be indirectly and unwittingly contributing to Nazi Germany's coffers, when she buys certain types of cosmetics or beauty products, it was pointed out).

Make your Power as you need it

THE only way to get power out of an engine is to burn fuel in it.

And it wouldn't be smart to burn enough gas to develop a hundred-plus horsepower all of the time—when it usually takes only a small part of that to give you the performance you want.

The sensible thing to do is to develop power as you need it—and that is precisely what the Buick FIREBALL eight with Compound Carburetion† does.

As long as one of the two carburetors in this system will do the job, that is the only one that functions.

But when you need extra power, extra pressure on the foot throttle throws an extra carburetor into action, feeding more fuel mixture into your engine and pouring more horsepower out.

"Best Buick Yet"
EXEMPLAR OF GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

You thus make your power as you need it. You know the lift and life of plenty-power when it's wanted.

And you get such frugal operation over the whole range of your driving that two carburetors give as much as 10% to 15% more mileage than the same engines once gave with one!

Interesting? We think so too—especially now.

See your dealer and learn about FIREBALL design and Compound Carburetion out on the road.

SPAIN, NAZIS CARRY ON BRISK BUSINESS THROUGH FRANCE

By PRESTO GROVER

HENDAYE, France (via Berlin), April 4 (Delayed)—(AP)—A steady stream of goods is being exchanged between Germany and Spain through this small border city on the German-occupied French coast.

As reported yesterday by Fernand DeBrion, Vichy government representative in Paris, the substantial trade carried by rail between Spain and Germany was made possible by German occupation of a belt of the seacoast touching the Spanish border.

Each week from 60 to 70 carloads of Spanish oranges are shipped across the border to be consumed either by German soldiers in France or sent directly to Germany.

300 TONS DAILY
In addition to oranges, large quantities of iron ore, nuts, dried fish, hides, cork and mercury are being moved across the border. It was estimated that the daily Spanish shipments to Germany total about 300 tons.

In return Germany has been sending dyes, paper pulp and medical supplies to Spain. Since the civil war Spain has been desperately short of medical materials and has indicated it welcomed German medicines to combat a reported increase in disease, notably of tuberculosis.

SEED POTATOES
Recently, Germany sent Spain 750 carloads of seed potatoes for spring planting of a crop which has been scarce since the civil war. Reports at Hendaye said po-with trucks from Italy, which long had believed she enjoyed an exclusive market there.

Direct shipment of goods from Spain is impossible due to differences in the gauges of the railway tracks. All goods must be transferred from freight cars of one system to those of the other at Hendaye. At present French colonial troops are providing much of the transfer labor.

THE COUNTRY is at last becoming alert to the fact that current delays and disruptions in the national defense program are following the lines of a definite and vast program of COMMUNIST SABOTAGE.

President Roosevelt has declared that Communist activity is the root of the strike evil in specific defense industries.

Defense Commissioner Knudsen has said the same Communist-inspired labor unrest which wrecked France is becoming a dangerous and potentially disastrous factor in this country.

The time is now at hand for the people of the United States to re-examine their whole attitude toward Communism.

The majority of the American people have always felt the menace of Communism was exaggerated, that the number of actual Communists was not large, and that the capacities for evil inherent in Communist activities were negligible.

In fact, the public attitude has been to let the Communist movement in the United States, admittedly subversive, have its head and blow off its steam—the theory being that it was quite harmless anyway, and would soon exhaust itself.

Even people who have regarded the Communist movement more seriously have contended that it was entitled to free expression under a democracy, and that the evils of suppression were more to be feared than the evils of subversion.

In other words, the popular belief was that mere ADVOCACY of overthrow of the American system of government was permissible and harmless, and that it would be time enough to think about remedial measures when actual ACTS of violence against the government occurred.

Well, we most certainly now have the ACTS of violence.

Our most vital industries are tied up.

The defense production on which we rely for our own security, and which our government has decided is necessary to preserve the democracies, is being hamstrung.

What is going to be done about it?

Are we going to continue to let this vicious enterprise thrive in our midst—a festering sore spreading infection throughout our entire industrial and social structure?

Are we going to let the Communist Party continue to masquerade as a legal political party, having the same shelter under our democratic institutions as the American groups it opposes and seeks to destroy?

Are we going to let Communists continue to instruct children in our schools, and admit Communist text-books to the American classroom?

SHIPBUILDING COURSES in Boston trade schools were endorsed by the City Council a few days ago, following the appearance of an editorial in this column recommending that instruction.

This is a forward step in the direction of progress.

We are sure members of the School Committee will act similarly.

The United States has begun one of the biggest ship construction programs in its history.

The work will continue throughout the current emergency and long after its termination, because thousands of merchant vessels will have to be built to replace losses in Europe's war.

And, unless we miss our guess, the growing public demand for efficiency and economy is going to require that a very large part of this activity be centered in Boston.

Inland cities—even the most ambitious ones—cannot build and FLOAT ocean liners.

Only coastal cities with deep harbors that open into the ocean can do that.

But before we seriously bid for the distinction of being the NO. 1 SHIPBUILDING CITY in the United States, we must have an adequate supply of skilled labor.

Our good schools can provide it.

LETHAL GAS, rather than the electric chair, will kill Massachusetts' condemned murderers if a bill sponsored by Sen. Thomas J. Lane of Lawrence becomes law.

This is the only measure affecting capital punishment to receive a favorable report this year from a Beacon Hill legislative committee.

Other proposals, including one to allow juries to qualify verdicts and to determine whether convicted men should die or live, were turned down.

The old "eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth" theory of justice seems firmly established in the minds of our law-makers—so firmly established that the fact that the great majority of states permit juries to recommend mercy for first degree murderers makes little or no impression on them.

It would, however, be interesting to learn how the committee members reached the conclusion that gas is more humane than electricity.

It is true, six states employ life-destroying fumes as a means of execution.

But it is also true that 22 other states use the electric chair.

They all turned out to be good men, too. There may be something to that "R" idea. There's F. D. Roosevelt and "Babe" Ruth. And Maxey Rosenbloom. And Gregory Ratoff. Also George Raft. And, so help me, I nearly forgot John D. Rockefeller.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Wednesday—I shall give you that letter, which I started yesterday, on the installment plan, because I must tell you a little about the things I am doing from day to day.

Yesterday afternoon, I received a group of winners in an essay contest from Lancaster County, Pa. They were such bright looking young people and evidently were enjoying their trip to Washington. Then we gave the annual tea for the graduating classes of the various schools. I think the group should be congratulated, for they came past me more rapidly than any other group that has ever been here.

At dinner last night, Mr. Clarence Streit talked to us a little about his lectures on his plan "Union Now." After dinner, Mr. Theodore Dreiser showed us some of his slides of Black Mountain College, near Asheville, N. C.

This is a most unique educational experiment, where the students and faculty are not only building their own buildings, but really are attempting to demonstrate democratic procedure in an educational institution.

Then the movie, "Men of Boytown" was shown and made a tremendous impression on everybody. I had to leave for a time to broadcast for the Federal Employees' Council, but could tell on my return what a moving story it was.

IT IS such beautiful weather this morning that I am dashing off for a short ride. The President is receiving Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt and some young people who are working in her division for British War Relief. I hope to get home in time to see them also.

And now for the next installment of that letter from Dame Rachel Crowley:

"The children, on the whole, are bearing the raids well. These have, I think, more effect on the 13's and 15's than on the younger children. How a child behaves depends very much on how it sees its parents behaving. The child of today has a philosophy of its own.

"I had a good example of this the other day. I was staying in a small out-of-the-way country village with Dame Katharine Furse. There had been no bombs there. Suddenly out of the night came the first screamer that we had heard, which laid us both flat on the floor. We gathered together downstairs in the dining room around a most Victorian dining table, with the two old maids (who had found time to get into caps and aprons) and three small evacuee boys from Liverpool.

"There was rather a silence at first, as the guns were going. Then the eldest boy said to me in conversational tones, 'I wonder where they will send us next to be safe.' That was his only comment, and there was no intentional sarcasm in it. We spent the rest of the night with them, making them show us the safety drill they had learned in school."

The Campbell Girl

"Oh, by the way, darling, would you like to take me out to dinner tonight for a change?"

HIGHER TAXES HIT PRESIDENT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 10—At the White House, Capt. James Roosevelt discussed with his father the question of income taxes. "There are many people," said Jimmy, "who just haven't enough cash with which to pay their taxes" . . . "I suppose that's true," the President agreed. "I may have to borrow some money myself—so that I can pay my second instalment" . . . Jimmy has been conferring with Boris Morros, the producer, about taking over his movie enterprises, while he serves his hitch in the Marines . . . While Mayor LaGuardia was completing the budget, a reporter asked about his plans for a third term at City Hall. "I haven't even figured out," said Fiorello, "where I'm going to get enough money out of this budget to pay me for THIS term."

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., is in town quietly preparing to leave for his South America mission . . . Clare Boothe, who leaves for Chungking this month, will return in July to do a lecture tour . . . Louis Ehret went into the Army yesterday . . . Donald Ogden Stewart saw the psychoanalytic show, "Lady in the Dark," and told Gertrude Lawrence that she was too dressed up on stage. "Just once," Stewart suggested, "you should've come dressed in a slip" . . . Random House will publish Harold Ross' autobiography. The New Yorker's editor will call the book, "My Life on a Limb" . . . John Golden, the producer of "Claudia," is a purist. His complaint against theater folk concerns the language they speak . . . "There are more than a million and a quarter words in the English language. Eight hundred thousand of those words are in the dictionary. And yet—nine out of ten persons in and around the theater can think only of 'Okay' when they really mean 'Yep.'"

DON NELSON, Defense Commissioner, made his first flight in an Army bomber last week. He flew from Washington to Baltimore in 17 minutes—with a parachute strapped on his back. The Nazi-controlled French newspaper, "Le Figaro," polled its readers to find out what movies they'd like to see again. No. 1 on the list was "L'Opera de Quat' Sous"—the French version of "Three Penny Opera"—for which the composer was Kurt Weill, who fled from Germany and now is here . . . Madge Evans and her family watched the Army Day parade in the rain to see Private Sidney Kingsley and 18,999 other soldiers marching.

JOHN BARRYMORE became uproarious on the movie set and refused to be appeased. An assistant producer was ordered rushed to the set to pacify the great star. He started to leave his office, when Barrymore rushed in and unloaded his complaints . . . The assistant patted him on the back and assured John that everything would be all right if Barrymore just would return to the set . . . "You're so excited," the assistant suggested, "why don't you go into the private room over there and take a nice, cool bath?" . . . "I won't," the star declared. "I won't bathe" . . . "But why not?" he was asked. "I bathe" . . . "Then I'll bathe," said Barrymore, "when you can act."

PEGGY LeBOUTILLIER took the Jonkers diamond to Chicago to wear it there. On the trip to New York, she was nervous at the thought that there were no guards for the gem. That nervousness increased and kept increasing. When the train reached Indiana, Peggy got off and stayed there until Harry Winston, owner of the Jonkers diamond, sent two guards to bring the gem back to New York.

MUSICIANS insist that this happened a long time ago, and neither Heifetz, Kreisler nor Elman will confirm it. The story concerns Mischa Elman and Jascha Heifetz, who lunched together in Washington. The head waiter brought an envelope addressed: "To the World's Great Violinist," and, after hesitation, delivered it to Heifetz—who, returned it to Elman—who, just as graciously, returned it to Heifetz . . . "The best way to settle this," Elman suggested, "is to have the head waiter read it to both of us at the same time" . . . The head waiter opened the envelope, removed the letter and began reading "Dear Frits . . ."

MADGE EVANS

HIS GIRL BLONDIE

By J. BRYAN, III

Reprinted by Permission of Collier's Magazine

EVEN READERS of the Helsinki Suomen Sosialidemokratian know Dagwood's passion for multidecker sandwiches. Readers of the Shanghai China Press Wonder at Blondie's new hats. Readers of the Guatemala City Imprenta Hispania sympathize when Baby Dumpling has to sit in the corner. They, and the readers of more than 500 other newspapers, representing 30 nations and 17 languages, have known the Bumsteads long and they know them well.

They know them so well, indeed, that when Chic Young showed Blondie using a sawsaw with a pattern of stripes, he received an avalanche of letters inquiring when she had bought it; her old sawsaw had been plain. He received another avalanche when he put a new lamp on the bed table. Another when he inadvertently moved the refrigerator to a different side of the kitchen.

To these millions of people, the Bumstead house is as familiar as their own. The explanation is that the Bumstead house is their own, or their relatives', or their neighbors'. Some readers accept the illusion as fact. They are so convinced that Young is drawing actual fellow citizens of theirs that they write him letters beginning, "You know Robinson's drugstore on the corner of Fourth and Main? Well, why don't you show—"

Young has scrupulously avoided localizing the Bumsteads. No one regrets this more than Dr. George Gallup. If Gallup knew where they lived, he could simply ask their opinion and he'd get the average opinion of America. This is the secret of the Bumsteads' appeal: they are as average-American as baseball, ham and eggs and—for that matter—comic strips.

THE BUMSTEADS never do something for a laugh that they wouldn't do normally. There are no such traditional cartoon black-outs as someone attempting suicide, or joining the Army, or jumping out of his shoes. Nothing enters their lives that doesn't enter an average life.

Dagwood can't operate a rocket ship or a disintegrator gun; his highest accomplishment is catching the last bus that will get him to the office on time. Blondie has never been held hostage by the mad Professor Quorio; her chief anxiety is whether her cake will rise. Baby Dumpling is not a Little Lost Prince, but he has one adoring subject—his dog Daisy. A typical Bumstead disaster is a mosquito in their bedroom or a cake of soap that slips out of reach. Even as with you and I.

When Young was drawing a strip whose heroine was a pert minx, he had an apartment in New York, and went to night clubs, and listened to the wisecrackers. It all fitted in. But when he began drawing Blondie, it didn't fit. He felt like a man in a hothouse trying to draw a meadow of buttercups.

"The kind of people Blondie is aimed at," he explains, "I think of as a little family out in Joplin, Missouri—a husband who goes to work at eight and comes home at six, ready to eat his wife out of the house. What did they care what the Broadway boys were saying? Nothing! I was out of touch with my audience, and as soon as I realized it I blew the big town."

YOUNG WENT to Great Neck, Long Island. Rather mournfully, he considers the kind of people he's in touch with now: "My neighbors think cartoonists are freaks, because we don't go to offices and don't have stenographers to sit on our laps. Still, I know something most of them don't know: I know that a milkman really exists. I've even talked to one."

He might have added, "I've even put one in the strip," because the Bumsteads' milkman is a stock character.

So is their mailman. Both are drawn from life, and both are celebrities in Great Neck.

"Everything goes into the strip that goes into an American middle-class home," Young says. "The milkman and the mailman go into every such home every day. That's why Daisy is there. Almost everybody who lives in a house has a dog—at least, it sounds like it at night."

"The three things of universal interest are sex, food and sleep. Sex is out of my strips, but a great many of them deal with food and sleep. The first thing Dagwood does when he comes home is peek into the pot, to see what he's going to get for supper. And when he isn't thinking about eating, he's taking a nap. I know that's

Hollywood Today

MARLENE DIETRICH, RAFT IN LEADS

By Louella O. Parsons

George Raft

HOLLYWOOD, April 10 I reckon it is only human to say "I told you so." Marlene Dietrich and George Raft are to be teamed in "All Through the Night," another picture for Warners. Remember I said Warners would try to keep Marlene on the lot? All the chit-chat that Marlene was battling is not only 100 per cent untrue but so ridiculous that Jerry Wald, her producer, Raoul Walsh, her director, and everyone concerned, flew to her rescue.

The interesting part is that not only will George and Marlene be teamed again but they'll have Raft as their director in "All Through the Night," a story by Leonard O. Ross and Leonard Spiegelglass.

The action all takes place in one night and in the telling it sounds like a boxoffice natural with George playing a gangster who fights the fifth columnist single-handed and Marlene playing a singer. The story is filled with color, action and excitement.

HELEN GILBERT

TALK ABOUT telephone numbers in boxoffice figures—Olson and Johnson have made millions in "Hellzapoppin'" which has been running on Broadway for three or more years. When they signed a contract to make a movie for Universal it seemed to be one of those indefinite things for no one ever suspected this comedy pair would leave their gold mine, but today word came that they are closing their show April 21 and, after 10 days' rest, will come out here to confer with Jules Levey, producer, and H. C. Potter, director. One thing—these two cronies won't be able to come down off the screen to the audience and distribute orchids, ice, bottles of beer and frankfurters as they did in the theater.

WHAT A TRIO Judy Canova, Jerry Colonna and Susan Hayward are for the movies and radio. Such patter and such wit. The three of them are my guests of honor Friday night over CBS in "Sis Hopkins" from 7 to 7:30. Jerry is just as funny off the screen as he is on. As for Judy, she can always top the next fellow one better and she has such talent. Susan Hayward, who made so many friends when she went out on personals for me, is doing better all the time as an actress. In fact the world's her oyster. Susan stays over for the broadcast and leaves for Mexico City for the big motion picture festival there which so many of our big names are attending as an industry matter.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Victor Mature was rushed to the Doctor's Hospital in New York with an acute attack of appendicitis. He has been appearing in the Gertrude Lawrence play "Lady in the Dark." Mrs. Chester Morris, out for the first time since her divorce, with Glenn Tyrois, Ruby Keeler is refusing to discuss the possibility of a reconciliation with Al Jolson but inside information is that it looks very good and everyone is glad; Greta Garbo was on the M-G-M lot today discussing her next picture with George Cukor.

NOW IT'S LADY FURNESS that Eddie Lowe is taking places; Helen Gilbert and Bill Marshall have taken up where they left off; Carole Landis and Raymond Hakim doing a little night clubbing; Miriam Hopkins arrives next month to spend the summer in Hollywood. Wonder if she'll take back her house? Jock Whitney rented it and it has one of the finest views of any of the hill-top homes.

REPORTS FROM the sneak preview of "Billy the Kid" should make M-G-M very happy; Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Paul start building a one-story English cottage right after their marriage; Lila Lee, who has been in Billy Rose's Diamond Horse Shoe in New York, is coming back to Hollywood and here's hoping she gets a great break; Jean Gabin, luncheon with Spencer Tracy on the M-G-M lot, had all the gals giving him the once over.

LOUELLA PARSONS, famed internationally-circulated Hearst motion picture columnist, will be heard locally over Station WEEI every Friday between 10 and 10:30 p. m.

Easter Menu That Pleases

By MARTHA LEE

Let's join the Easter parade this year, but let's also keep in mind that a bit of fashion and style may also be given to the Easter dinner. Roast lamb, or chicken, or ham will undoubtedly be the choice of most homemakers as the main course for this festive occasion. Easter, like Christmas and New Year's, seems to call for that added effort on the part of every homemaker to make this meal a bit out of the ordinary.

First, let us begin with the course appetizer. A small glass of domestic sherry wine will provide just the right tangy blend to whet the appetite for the glamorous array of foods to follow.

EASTER DINNER

And for our dinner suggestion today we have chosen roast lamb. There's more than a hint of springtime in the plump, golden-brown stuffed shoulder of lamb pictured here, with its garland of minted apples and mint leaves. But even more appealing is the fact that here is an example of economy with style—just one more way of showing how food can be thrifty, yet attractive too.

CUSHION SHOULDER OF LAMB

Have square-cut lamb shoulder boned and sewed on two sides at the market. This leaves one side open for inserting stuffing. Season the shoulder, outside and inside, with salt and pepper. Fill with pineapple stuffing. Sew or skewer edges together. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Put in a slow oven (300 deg. F.) and roast until done. Allow about 40 minutes per pound for roasting a boned shoulder.

PINEAPPLE STUFFING

2 tbsp. minced onion
2 tbsp. melted butter
2 cups soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper
1 tbsp. minced parsley

1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
Saute onion in melted butter until tender. Add bread crumbs and brown slightly, then add salt, pepper, parsley and drained pineapple.

MINTED APPLES

Make a syrup by cooking sugar and water together. Color with green vegetable coloring, used sparingly. Flavor with a few drops of oil of peppermint. Pare and core apples and simmer in the mint syrup until they are tender but not soft.

BUTTERHORNS

1 cup milk
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 cake compressed yeast
3 beaten eggs
4½ cups flour
Scald milk; add shortening, sugar, and salt. Cool to lukewarm; add crumbled yeast and stir until softened. Add eggs, then flour; mix to smooth, soft dough. Knead lightly on floured surface. Place dough in greased bowl; cover and let rise in warm place (82 deg.) until at least double in bulk. Divide dough in thirds; roll each third on lightly floured surface to 9-inch circle. Cut each in 12 to 16 wedge-shaped pieces; roll each wedge, starting with wide end and rolling to center. Arrange in greased baking pan and brush with melted fat or salad oil. Cover and let rise until very light. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. to 425 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen rolls.

A New Figure For Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

It used to be that no lady ever crossed her legs, so nobody bothered about the right and wrong way of doing it. But crossing the legs is a comfortable way to sit, and there's a way to do it gracefully.

Cross the legs above the knees, not right at the knee, and have the toes pointed in the same direction, not east and west. When you cross the ankles, cross them low and keep the toes pointed the same way.

If you do not cross the legs, knees together is the rule when seated. Never sit with knees apart, or with knees together and feet apart, or with legs entwined about the chair leg.

The correct and most graceful sitting posture is to sit with the back of the hips pressed against the back of the chair. And sit up, not down! Keep the figure pulled slim through the middle, don't settle. Let the shoulders be relaxed.

The old rule of throwing the shoulders back and the chest out leads to tension. The shoulders should be easy, the chest held up and the head high.

You should stand tall and walk tall—that's the only rule to go by. As you enter a room, pause for an imperceptible second, pull slim and lift your head up. Never come in slumped with eyes looking down.

When you are ready to be seated walk slowly over to a chair, turn around casually, locate the chair seat with the back of one leg, then lower yourself easily, making use of your front thigh muscles. Don't just drop!

In rising from a chair, never hoist yourself up with your arm muscles; again use the thigh muscles, that's what they are for. As you get up, have one foot slightly advanced and the easy transfer of weight to that foot will let you take off gracefully.

JUNE, THE MONTH of brides and roses, can't come soon enough for a number of our pretty post debs who are knee deep in wedding plans. . . . June will bring wedding bells for Merrill Bunce of Chestnut Hill, an accomplished figure skater and member of the Vincent Club who will become the bride of F. Fessenden Wilder of North Andover, at the Church of the Redeemer the last Wednesday of the month. . . .

Even the usual quiet of Holy Week has failed to damp the gaiety of pre-wedding plans and every day sees some sort of festivity being arranged for future brides. . . . So many showers have been given for Janet Pierce, that her parents' Bay State road home is fairly bursting with gifts. . . . Petite and vivacious Janet becomes the bride of Perry Johnson on Patriot's Day. . . .

Others busy having consultations with engravers, florists, musicians and dressmakers in preparation for big weddings are Catherine Ross of Hingham, Rosamond Whitney of Milton, Mary Faxon of Cambridge, and Mimi Little, all June brides-to-be. . . .

Radio Cheer for Bomb Victims

AMERICAN YOUNGSTERS can't send Easter Bunnies and gay colored eggs to their brothers and sisters in bomb-torn England, but they can send their voices winging over the air waves in messages of cheer and encouragement. . . .

Today inaugurates the first of a series of transatlantic broadcasts from the children of this country to the children of England. . . . The program is under the auspices of Friends of Children, Inc., which is endeavoring to provide cheer and inspiration to the youthful victims of this horrible war. . . .

The weekly programs will present dramatizations of children's plays, short speeches and greetings. . . . Bostonians lending a helping hand with the project include Mr. Alan Forbes, Mrs. Homer Gage, Mrs. Aldus C. Higgins, Miss Leslie Richardson, Dr. Daniel Marsh of B. U., Dr. George Coleman, Mrs. William E. Cheney and Mr. Samuel Colt. . . .

A HAPPY EASTER is assured the young William Stanwood Fiers of Charles street, who are the proud parents of a baby daughter, Phoebe. . . . The infant brings grandparent honors to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pier of New York, Mrs. Snow Plimpton of Dedham and Mr. T. Barnet Plimpton of Boston. . . . Mrs. Fier is the former Reinetta Plimpton. . . .

Claire Virginia Moran to Wed

DANNY CUPID has certainly worn a path to the John J. Moran doorstep on Berkeley street in 1941. . . . For the second time this year he has caught one of the Moran's attractive daughters in his net. . . .

His first victim, Kathleen Moran, was married in February to Ralph West Robey of New York. . . . and today Mr. and Mrs. Moran announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Claire Virginia, to Lt.-Col. S. LeRoy Irwin of Washington. . . . The wedding will take place in May. . . .

The bride-to-be attended the convent school of the Sacred Heart, Notre Dame Academy and Miss McClintock's School in Boston. . . . After making her debut in 1933 she graduated from Trinity College, Washington. . . .

DON JUAN LIPSTICK

You Can Be Beautiful

New 'Skipper' Tones

By ARLINE GOULD

FASHION in beauty is a living thing to a certain cosmetic creator. . . . and she takes her inspiration from the happenings of today. . . . from the newspaper headlines even. So her newest makeup is topical. . . . up-to-the-minute and exciting. . . . it's the "skipper" makeup for all the favorite shades of spring! . . .

This is no hackneyed floral theme. No indeed! It's downright saucy, with a rollicking nautical atmosphere you'll fall for. . . . and she has a very special sort of offer you will surely want to explore. You may have a complete make-up. . . . and what we mean by complete is much more than a face cleansing and a dab of powder, lipstick and rouge. . . . as a present from her, you may discover just how marvelously well this new make-up suits you! . . .

You can go into a trick little salon and have this make-up carefully applied right from the inside out. . . . so you'll have the kind of face that can launch a thousand ships. Well, at least it will make the f. g. look awfully proud of you when he's here on leave. . . .

"Skipper." If course, is ideal for navy life. It's all important this aprin'. But the make-up is so basic that it complements practically all of the colors that are being worn right now. Furthermore, it's a make-up you can wear 24 hours of the day. . . .

Beth-cream and liquid make-up base are used as a foundation. The powder is chosen for subtle flattery. . . . mixed just for you. . . . and the warm-tinted rouge and lipstick go next. The finishing touch—which is optional—is a tricky over-blend of eye-liner. This illuminates and enlarges your eyes without a "painted" effect. . . .

If you'd like information on this complimentary make-up, featuring the new "Skipper" tones for spring, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. . . .

Pattern 9397 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric. . . .

To get this pattern send 15 cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th st., New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book. . . .

SHE was christened Hermione Rebecca Hall. A fancy moniker considering Herm is very plain and very common and there isn't anything fancy about her.

Herm and I had been pals before I left Shadracks to marry Joe. She's real stuff is Herm. Like I told Joe when he was busy being thunderstruck at what happened—it wasn't really surprising—not if you knew Herm.

Herm was a crack typist at Shadracks, the big paper-mill people. She was there 15 years steady. Other girls came and went—too other jobs, got married, or maybe even fired. But Herm stayed.

She would speak her mind to any one, would Herm. She about had every one in the place on the mat at one time or another. But it was 15 years before she came up against the boss. When she did she spoke her piece and lost her job.

Old Mr. Shadrack developed a yen for his son's secretary. It was pretty serious, particularly as young Frank had a case on her himself.

Herm gave me the low-down one day at lunch. It seems this secretary was a nice enough girl till the boss and his son start talking. Then suddenly she pulls a Jekyll and Hyde on the office, and it gets so there's no peace to be had.

"Miss" Audrey Dresser, that's this dame's handle, is very arrogant and very sophisticated with the staff, excepting when the two bosses are around.

"Then," Herm snapped, "she's all brown-eyed innocence and a touch of halo."

Things get so the entire staff's laying odds as to which it's to be—the old guy with his dough, or the boy.

"And," Herm added, real disgusted, "Frank really loves her, too."

But Herm wasn't all disapproval. In fact she was pretty much sold on Frank and this girl making a match of it.

"She's no lady, but a lady would be the ruin of Frank. It's a cinch that guy would sit back and be gentle the rest of his life. He'd never get anywhere and the business would go to pot."

A GOLD-DIGGER. "Now this Dresser dame, she's got ambition—she'd keep him going."

"A pusher?" I suggested—"Yeah—but if she married the old boy she'd just push herself—fur coats, orchids and airs. Now if the kid she'd have to push him to get the trimmings. Do him a world!"

That was the start. We didn't talk much more that day and it was some time before I heard the next step.

Then I saw one of the boys from the office and he told me. Herm had been fired!

"Had a run-in with the boss about a week ago—over this Dresser girl. Wish you could bin there. For weeks we all knew something was due to break. Herm tickled that typewriter like a demon was after her—she was due when someone's due to get told off!"

"Then one day there was a row in Frank's office. It seems the kid finally got 'round to suggestin' to Dresser she might make up her mind. It didn't suit the skirt much. So she was having herself a nice orgy of alligator water when he walks the old guy!"

"Boy, that started it! Pop lights in Frank on all four cylinders. Frank snaps out the first bit of back talk anyone ever heard from him at that office.

"You go to the devil," sez he, "and lookin' at Audrey kinda queer he sez, 'and you can take her with you.' Then he alarm-bangs out the office."

I guess that was the last blow to Herm. Up she gets and marches herself right past the 'Private' sign on Frank's door and finds the old man mopping up the tears.

"No one knows what she said. But pretty soon out she stalks—cleans up her desk and without so much as a last 'adieu' takes her departure. Now, Herm's gone, Frank's gone. The old boy has the field to himself. And—he no more anyway), "and how is your nice young man? Married—yes, yes—I recall." (He oughta—he gave us a hundred bucks for a wedding present!)

Then out it comes. "You used to be great friends with Miss Hall I believe."

Coming from him I was sort of surprised—but that wasn't the half. "I'm very anxious to find her," sez he, "we had a little disagreement over—er—ah—a little matter. I fear me that I was hasty in allowing Miss Hall to leave. She has always been a trifle quick with the tongue—but a very dependable fine woman. Do you happen to have her address, Miss Simms?"

It's a wonder I had the wits to answer—I was that flabbergasted. But told him what I knew: that she had packed up and gone—all but the canary!

"Canary?" he puzzled, "the woman said nothing about a canary."

It didn't take me long to figure out that "the woman" was Herm's landlady. And the "old guy" she spilled about was Mr. Shadrack himself.

"Looks like the Dresser number had cut up once too many," Joe said when I told him about my talk with the boss.

I asked him how he made that.

"Simple! He's beginning to notice how dependable Herm is. Probably wants to give back her job. You wouldn't find him doing this if 'Miss Dresser' was still holding forth."

Like I say it was six months before I heard from Herm. Then I got this letter. And for the first time since I've known her Herm doesn't seem able to come out and say it. Such beating about the bush!

JOY FOR ALL

I made out she's trying to thank me for something special. It looks like my telling Mr. Shadrack about the canary fixes things up fine.

That same day, after I saw the old guy, down he toots to 23d st. He persuades the landlady to let him keep the canary for "Miss Hall." Seems she hadn't promised anything about that, and she don't mind takin' a little "present."

"Just to pay for the seed he's already at." That riled Herm, because she said she'd left plenty of seed for him!

When she comes back for her bird she gets told that a nice gentleman has him and to go and fetch him there.

She sez when she went out for the bird she and Mr. Shadrack got it all doped out and they owe me a lot.

Altogether I weed out from her letter the idea that everything is now on the up and up.

But like I told Joe: "I don't see where she's got her job back. It don't make sense to me."

"She don't need it," sez he, "just look at this," and he passes me the morning paper.

At the column he's pointing to I read:

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shadrack have just returned from Miami, where they attended the wedding of the former's son, Franklin Ramsey Shadrack, to Miss Audrey Dresser of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shadrack were themselves recently married.

Mrs. Shadrack being former Miss Hermoine Rebecca Hall.

You could have knocked me over with a feather.

Joe couldn't get over it either. But like I told him—it's really not so surprising when you think of it.

The Dresser Dame showed up right away she liked Frank best.

And Herm—well, nothing surprising when you know I'm in!

Like Dagwood he has a pretty young wife—the former Ethel Lindorf, of Rock Island, Illinois, a member of a hot ensemble. He has a boy and a girl—Denn, two, and Jeanne, one. Like Dagwood, he is a dog—Rock a Boston bull terrier, Like Dagwood, he lives in a suburb. But these the resemblance stops. Dagwood has one foot on the ladder. Young is already close to the top. In a few months he is expected to be the biggest young comic star in the world. Right now he brings him more than $100,000 a year.

FOR THE BENEFIT of—who came in late, Dagwood is the son of J. Bolling Bumstead, who owns five railroads, and Blondie is the daughter of a Mrs. Hopadodoo. 'SMITHS' STAYING OVER SECOND WEEK AT KEITH MEMORIAL

Fans Acclaim New Comedy

"Mr. and Mrs. Smith," that daffy, delightful couple, are remaining a second week on the Keith Memorial screen at the fans' insistent demands.

THE EVER-LOVING SMITHS . . . just before they make it up . . . in the Keith-Memorial hit comedy, "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," remaining a second week.

This Carole Lombard-Robert Montgomery co-starring comedy is being hailed as one of the season's best wherever it has been shown. As a prosperous New York attorney and his wife of three years' standing who have mutually agreed to remain in their bedroom until they have made up their differences, Miss Lombard and Montgomery were never funnier.

Gene Raymond, another Hollywood platinum-blondie who has gone chestnut-brown, is the "other man" in the plot. He does well enough with what they give him to do, but since they've given the Smiths practically everything to do he winds up just as good as an actor as well as the other man.

Others in the supporting cast are Philip Merivale, Betty Compson, Jack Carson and Lucille Watson. Alfred Hitchcock, Britain's celebrated round-man of the megaphone who has scored with "Rebecca" and "Foreign Correspondent," directed.

The co-feature returns to Keith-Memorial screen the 1938 Academy Award winners, Ginger Rogers and James Stewart co-starring in the second-run "Vivacious Lady."

Charmaine Back To Globe's Stage

Six feet of glamour is the internationally celebrated billing for Charmaine, who is making a return engagement to the Globe tomorrow at the head of that house's new travelling burlesque company. This handsome charmer is no stranger to local burlesque fans, who know her as a one-girl shock troop movement in the dance department.

Other stunners in the company's lineup of 70 are the Mexican Vilma Jorey, a Rio de Janeiro night spot pet; Ika De Cava and down south's Virginia Jones. The 30 dancing Bernardinis have a whole new dance repertoire, most eye-taking of which is reported to be their "Bunny Boala."

West Beauties Top in 'Ziegfeld'

Since the days of Florenz Ziegfeld, the capital beauty in the United States has shifted from the East Coast to the West, from New York to the Pacific states of California, Oregon and Washington.

Although Ziegfeld himself used to say that he rated the Southern type of beauty first, the California or outdoor type second, and the New York or sophisticated type third, statistics show that glorified showgirls were born in New York city—or not far away.

In contrast, the 12 showgirls selected from more than 500 applicants from all parts of the country as glorified "front-liners" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Ziegfeld Girl," indicate the West Coast preponderantly favored.

A comparison between these girls and Ziegfeld's can be obtained by placing them beside the 12 who gained most fame in films after starting their careers with Ziegfeld. Billie Dove, Lilyan Tashman, Marion Davies, Nita Naldi, Gilda Gray, Mae Murray, Jacqueline Logan, Martha Mansfield, Marilyn Miller, Ina Claire, Louise Brooks and Lina Basquette.

Of these, the first four, Billie Dove, Lilyan Tashman, Marion Davies and Nita Naldi, all hailed from New York city. In contrast, the only native New Yorker in the front line of "Ziegfeld Girl" is Anna Tardona, although Brooklyn is represented by Inna Wilson and Orange N. J., by Nina Bisel.

Of the 12 mentioned, Ziegfeld's only California-raised was Lina Basquette of San Mateo, but the California list in "Ziegfeld Girl" includes La Plénche and Madeleine Martin of Los Angeles and Virginia Cruzon of San Francisco. The West Coast is further represented by Frances Gladwin of Portland and Vivien Mason of Seattle, whereas Ziegfeld had no charmers from Oregon or Washington among his dozen.

The midwesterners in "Ziegfeld Girl" are Loraine Gettman of Lincoln, Neb., and Aline Brandes of Chicago, Ill.

So it's westward the course of beauty takes its way, and if any other section wants to dispute that claim—well, it should have sent more representatives to apply for jobs in "Ziegfeld Girl."

NEW THEATRE
OPENING SOON

NANCY McCORD is the prima donna of "Rose Marie," the 15-year-old Friml-Harbach-Hammerstein, II, operetta which should be welcome as those tardy spring flowers when it opens at the Shubert, Monday evening. Tickets go on sale today at the boxoffice.

'Rose Marie' Returns Monday

The 15-year-old operetta, "Rose Marie," which would seem to be as deathless as Gilbert and Sullivan or, for that matter, the recently successfully revived "Blossom Time," brings back its lilting tunes and adventurous story to the Shubert Theater on Monday evening.

Originally produced on Sept. 2, 1924, in New York, "Rose Marie" ran for almost two years on Broadway. It rolled up record-breaking runs in all the principal cities of this country, and in Canada, Australia, in London, Paris and Berlin it duplicated its success and popularity.

When this conspicuously successful Rudolf Friml-Otto Harbach-Oscar Hammerstein II, musical play is presented on the Shubert stage you'll be hearing such memorable melodies as "Rose Marie, I Love You," "Indian Love Call," and many others.

Nancy McCord and Alexander Gray head the company, which boasts Hope Emerson, Grace Poggi, Don Gauthier, Robert Chisholm, Richard Rober and Allan Stewart.

Film Snapshots At South Station

"Screen Snapshots," on South Station Theater screen, reviews the Hollywood entertainment being provided West Coast training camps. It shows Burns and Allen up at San Diego Naval base, Rita Hayworth teaching the boys the thumba and Abbott and Costello.

BEACON'S FILMS

"Haunted Honeymoon," with Robert Montgomery and Constance Cummings, and "Little Nelly Monte Cristo," costarring Louis Hayward, George Stanescu and Joan George Murphy, occupy the Beacon screen through Saturday.

March Film Tops Tremont Bill

Fredric March currently appearing on a local stage may see himself on the Tremont screen in "Sign of the Cross," spectacular religious play. On the same bill, which continues through the week, is "No, No, Nanette," which stars Anna Neagle with Victor Mature, Richard Carlson, Roland Young and Helen Broderick.

UPTOWN PROGRAM

Uptown's screen feature, starting tomorrow, will be "The Sun of Mingung," costarring Louis Hayward, George Stanescu and Joan George Murphy, occupy the Bennett, and "Paul Girl," with Kay Beacon screen through Saturday.

11 YEARS OF OWNERS MANAGEMENT

His Girl Bondie

By J. BRYAN III

the Minnesota Cheese Ass'n appreciatively came through with a 10-pounder.

Chic's advice to novices is short but valuable: You can tell if your drawing ink is dry by rubbing it with your hand, and you can remove inkstains from a rug by soaking the spot in milk and then cutting around it with scissors.

Thursday and Friday are for the Sunday page. Saturday morning he draws his Sunday "top-piece." Colonel Poterby and the Duchess Saturday afternoon is for other Blondie business—radio, movies and novelties. "And Sunday is free—I hope."

Before Chic begins the actual business of putting ink on paper, he insists that a 14-year-old bottle of white shellac, long ago dried up, be on his desk. It has become sort of a luck piece.

Then, "You have to lay out your strip so that the figures jump off the page at the reader. The four panels should explode like firecrackers—bang! bang! bang! bang! That's why the principal figures are drawn so that they can be identified in silhouette—Blondie by the vulva on her neck, Dagwood by his rowlocks and bow tie."

THERE'S ANOTHER reason for that bow tie: it can't swing around and interfere with the action. Further, it's part of the star shape of Dagwood's head—the tie, the hair and the spouting all seem to radiate from one center. But Chic wants it made clear that there is no reason—none—for the outside button on Dagwood's shirt. He thinks he put it in originally to fill up a blank space, and now he devoutly wishes he hadn't. Every mail brings him a letter inquiring about it. In desperation, he tried leaving it off, but even more letters reproved him for the omission. Grotesque or not, the button is now there for keeps.

Few comic artists recognize the existence of sex, politics and religion. Their women don't smoke. Their men don't drink, and if they ramble it is for minimum stakes. (Incidentally, it's risky for an artist to show adults listening to the radio; he is sure to get complaints from jealous newspapers.)

Chic carries these conventions to an almost finicky extreme. He never lets one of his characters say "ain't," or refer to children as "kids," or to a man as a "guy," or to a woman as a "bitch."

CHIC PRETENDS to know nothing, however, of the daily squawks that his strip causes. Squawks? Rather, they are downright riots. And they spring, of course, from "friendly" discussions of which is the funniest strip he ever drew.

Group A favors the one in which Dagwood comes home and finds a plate of bloated silly little bridge-party sandwiches, left over from Blondie's game that afternoon. He looks at them contemptuously, then gets two big slices of bread (group A's spokesman has to wipe his eyes and catch his breath at this point), claps a dozen between them, and munches a sandwich-sandwich.

Group B, which has been waiting impatiently to have its turn, now shouts, "Okay, but how about this one—?"

Dagwood tops his six-decker sandwich with a thick sprinkling of pepper. Just as he is about to bite in, the pepper gets up his nose and he sneezes. A slice of ham lights in Blondie's lap, pickles and ketchup and onion fly all over the room, a pile of cheese hits Daisy (here the narrator collapses and has to have his collar loosened), and a fried egg spatters on a chair. Blondie's line is, "I always knew one of your sandwiches would explode!"

Well, they're both pretty funny strips. In fact, very funny. But if you want to know the absolutely funniest strip Chic ever drew, it was the one about the time Dagwood was taking a bath, and Baby Dumping—

Bam! Splat! Oof! Zowie!

Wilson To Pitch Opener

By HERB FINNEGAN

CINCINNATI, April 10—Lefty Grove has a sore hand; Lefty Grove has a stiff neck; Lefty Grove is in bed all day with a cold.

The season's opener is only a few days away and the 41-year-old mouthpiece has worked only three innings to date.

It begins to look as if the Sox will have to search elsewhere for their opening day pitcher for the first time in eight years.

Who will it be?
Joe Cronin won't say, but our guess is that it will be Strongboy Jack Wilson.

"Anybody but Wilson," you bark. "He's let us down too often. Every year he's going to win 20 games and never does better than 11 or 12. Put on a new record."

Let's keep the record and use a different patter.

This actually ought to be the year Wilson wins 20, because he's finally learned how to pitch.

Sounds odd, doesn't it, that a fellow can be around a major league ball club for five or six years and yet not be a master at his trade. Yet Wilson is not alone in that category.

Red Ruffing was up a long, long

WINGS PLAN ROUGH GAME TO STOP WEARY BRUINS

DETROIT, April 10—Definitely past their peak and badly bruised, the Bruins are mighty thankful that they have two decisions to their credit as they step into the Red Wings for round three of the Stanley Cup finals here tonight.

Catching the Wings on an off-night, the Bruins grabbed the opener 3 to 2, but Tuesday night, the Rossmen were mighty lucky to eke out a 2-1 verdict after being cleanly outplayed most of the way.

In fact it was Detroit's play in that second encounter that has Art Ross worried. The Wings, knowing that the Bruins will probably have to occupy a hospital ward for a rest cure after this series, are really stepping in with plenty of plain and fancy checking.

The Bruins, on the other hand, are trying to avoid contact as much as possible. With almost everybody below par physically, the Boston outfit is trying to pick up games with the least possible effort.

But on the brand of hockey they've shown in the first two affairs, they can't hope to ride through in four straight.

TO DEPEND ON CHECKING

In fact Jack Adams has inferred that he'll be very much disappointed if the teams don't return to Boston tied at two all next Sunday afternoon.

His wings will continue their policy of heavy checking in an effort to slow the Bruins down and they will continue the Rossmen tactics of "streamlined" hockey with five men down the ice.

Adams knows that with Schmidt, Jackson, Hill, Bauer and Hollett far from right physically, the Bruins won't get the fast breaks they are famous for. So wide open tactics are not too dangerous in this series as his Wings will still be able to backcheck on the tired Bruins.

The Wings will stand pat on the 15 men who played the second game, which means that Kenny Kiltrea will be a spectator and Connie Brown will be available as the 16th man. Brown, who is an import from Indianapolis, picked up two assists in the first game and played well enough in the second to warrant his dressing again.

HILL TO SEE LITTLE ACTION

Like the Wings, the Bruins will use their same 15—they have no other choice. Coach Cooney Weiland has only 15 men available and can do no shifting around.

The only possible change in the Bruins' lineup may be that Pat McReavey will center the Cowley 11 in place of Mel Hill, who is somewhat battered.

Mel wrenched his elbow in the first game, and Tuesday night had his side badly scraped as a result of a board check. As a result he avoided his time yesterday and early today in putting ice packs on his side and baking his elbow.

Hill is expected to see some action, but the chances are that McReavey will see most of the action.

The Bruins took things easy today, as they are all drawn and tired . . . they are a little disappointed that Sunday's game has been moved ahead a day, for they would have welcomed that extra's vacation. Manager Art Ross intends heading back for home about 4 o'clock Sunday morning, in order to get back some time that evening . . . if the Bruins should by chance go through in four straight, the gang will probably stay over in the Motor City for an extra day.

Terry Picks Dodgers to Win Flag Race

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 10 (AP)—Bill Terry, Giants' manager who stayed here overnight "to get locker rooms out of my hair," predicted today it will be the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National Baseball League. "I think they'll be the team to beat," said Terry, who was the guest of former New York Police Commissioner George McLaughlin. He added he expected the Giants to "do all right financially" but "I can't say how they'll make out in the pennant race." The Giants played an exhibition in Charleston, W. Va.

B'S BREAK UP TRAIN HOP TO BOSTON BY PLAYING KANSAS CITY FARM CLUB

By BILL GRIMES

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 10—In order to break the long and tedious train ride from Kansas City to Boston, Manager Casey Stengel and his Bees stopped off here today to play an exhibition game with Bob Coleman's Bees, a farm club.

Since they pulled out of San Antonio a week ago last Tuesday night, the Bees have been in trains almost 90 hours. And, they still have 26 to go before they reach the Huntington ave. station tomorrow night at 8:40.

Bill Possel, who has been complaining of a sore arm since he got his ears pinned back for 13 hits and 8 runs in five rounds, in the last game played at San Antonio, is the Bees' starting pitcher with Art Johnson ready to take over when needed.

NOT ALL CLEMS

During the Bees-Browns series, which carried the contesting clubs down into Monterrey, Mexico, and to Austin, Houston and Texarkana, Texas; Ft. Smith, Ark.; End, Okla.; Wichita and Topeka, Kan.; Kansas City, Mo., umpires Ziggy Sears and Eddie Rommel have traveled with the clubs.

Like the ball players, the arbiters are sent South every spring to get in shape. With the possible exception of Bill Clem, there isn't an umpire in the game, who has been able to step in cold and show to his best advantage in many years. Barring that now famous Mexican ruling that he came up with in the 11th inning of the second game in Monterrey, "Ziggy" Sears did a pretty nice job, despite the fact that on many occasions Casey Stengel didn't agree.

A REAL ALIBI

On the other hand, Eddie Rommel's work, particularly when he was behind the plate, caused considerable criticism. Eddie blew so many balls and strikes that both Haney and Stengel were on him constantly.

Rommel can call balls and strikes far better than he has been for the past month. So, it was only natural for Stengel and Haney to jump him as they did.

Although he had a good alibi for his mistakes, I don't believe that Rommel told it to either Stengel or Haney.

I was with Bill Summers, the American League umpire in the lobby of the Hotel Gunter on the morning the New York Yankees were in San Antonio to play Manager Marty McManus' Missions. While I was conversing with the pride of Upton, Mass., Rommel joined us.

After asking Summers' advice on some tricky baseball questions, which fans had written him about, Rommel, who incidentally looked drawn and worried, stated that for more than a week he had had dizzy spells every morning.

Then, he told us that he had been hit on the head during an exhibition game between the St. Louis Browns and Randolph Field.

TROUBLE AHEAD

He said that he was working the bases and was standing between the pitcher and second base, watching the return throw of a hit into left field. Just as the ball was about to be caught by the shortstop, Rommel turned to be ready in the event there was a play at first base. The next thing he knew, everything went black.

It seems that the return throw from the left fielder was high, the ball caromed off the shortstop's glove and conked him back of the ear. Eddie admitted he took the count and that his head had ached incessantly, since he was hit. Up to that time, Rommel's umpiring hadn't been noticeably poor but it was from then on.

Bill Summers advised him to have an X-ray taken and the American League would take care of the expense.

Whether he accepted the advice offered by Summers, I cannot say but I can say that he is for a tough season if he doesn't improve on his judgment on balls and strikes.

A CHAMPION IN THE MAKING—Little five-year-old Arlene Brooks of Los Angeles, whose grandfather is Harry Brooks, professional at the Flintridge Country Club, is so good at golf that she now gets her biggest kick out of driving blindfolded. And she can do it almost as well as she does when she

Sox Face Derringer In Series 'Rubber'

CINCINNATI, April 10—On one and the same afternoon, out at Crosley field, the Red Sox wasted a Homeric home run by Jimmy Foxx, blew a five-run lead and muffed a cinch chance to grab the edge in the spring series with the Reds as the world champions staged a seven-run rally in the eighth to gain a 9 to 7 decision.

It was a case of Joe Cronin having too much faith in Joe Dobson.

The ex-Indian was supposed to twirl five innings. Because he gave only four hits up to the sixth and was leading 5 to 2, he was allowed to continue. He was sent back again in the seventh because he was then in front, 7 to 2, and when he retired the side in order in the lucky frame, he was flagged on to the eighth.

Then the roof fell in on him. He walked a man, then yielded five hits and the score was tied.

Tex Hughson was then summoned with a Red on base, Jim Gleason at bat and two out.

The first pitch by the Texan twirler shot off Gleason's bat and sailed high into the right field stands for a home run.

Thus, the series is now tied at 8-8 and the Fenway Favorites to gain the edge must beat Paul Derringer in the 15th and final game this afternoon.

Up to the moment of the Red riot, the Foxx homer was the big news of the day.

The Pedland customers, numbering 1065, as well as the native players and press men, agreed they had never seen a longer hit at the local orchard. The Boston players and scribes had to agree they never saw Double X hit a ball further than he did this one off Johnny (No Hit) Vander Meer.

Cronin Gives Three Players Few Days Off

CINCINNATI, April 10 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox gave Lefty Grove, Mickey Harris and Frank Pytlak the rest of the week off after yesterday's game here so they would make quick visits to their homes and enjoy the club in Boston Sunday.

Kampouris Slated To Start for Dodgers

WILMINGTON, Del., April 10 (AP)—Alex Kampouris, who figured to be a utility infielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers this season, now is expected to start the season at second base. Given a chance to show himself when Pete Coscarart was benched for weak hitting, Kampouris has been hitting and fielding in great style.

time before he became a winner, and if you say he won as soon as he joined the Yanks we'll agree in a way; yet Danny MacFayden was a winner with the old hitless Sox when Ruffing was a failure. Bucky Walters, Bob Feller and Grove weren't phenomena when they broke in, and it took Dazzy Vance about 13 years to get his feet on the ground.

WON 16 IN '37

Like Bucky Walters, Wilson started out as a third baseman. Before he came to Boston in '35 his minor league pitching total was 13 won, 13 lost over a couple of seasons. Not much experience there.

As he readily admits, he had nothing but a fireball when he joined the Sox. He did very well with that alone in '37, winning 16 and losing 10, and it was that year which made everybody figure he let them down when he didn't win 20 in '38, '39 or '40.

But a pitcher can't get by very long with just a fireball. Grove and Feller found that out before Wilson.

So Jack started experimenting with a curve ball. He finally developed a good one but couldn't control it, with the result that the batters used to wait him out, get the pitch they wanted, and bam!

ALWAYS BEHIND BATTER

This year it's going to be different. Wilson was experimenting with a knuckle last fall and now can control it better than his curve. He really seems ready to go at last.

Wilson's big fault, he's the first to admit, is that he always has been behind the batter. Another, that he threw nothing but fast stuff.

He has learned, finally, to slow up. He sneaks the knuckle ball over for a much valued strike occasionally, and he varies his speed. Then, like Derringer, when he decides to out it on, his fast one looks like a camphor ball.

Pitching is an art, and one doesn't become an artist overnight. Derringer, getting along in years, never relied on the knuckle until last season, and now uses it as a regular diet. And didn't we see Grove come up with a side-arm pitch against those left-handed Cincinnati batters in Birmingham?

A pitcher can't stand still in the majors and get along. Grove and Derringer have been successes because they keep adding to their repertoire.

It took Walters and Ruffing and Vance and others several years before they developed into consistent winners. Wilson at last seems ready to join that group.

This actually OUGHT to be his year.

STEPHANO BROTHERS, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

OLD MEN CANNOT fight, while rich men would rather sit around a table listening to stories that satisfy their own vanity than to take punches on the chin.

Two old men, Max Baer and Tony Galento, recently suffered humiliating defeats. Baer was knocked out by young Lou Nova, while Galento quit to Buddy Baer.

Baer is 32 years of age, Galento at least 35.

You can count a heavyweight fighter out when he becomes 30 years of age. He may think he is as good as he was when 25, but he is only kidding himself.

The old guy's legs refuse to function properly. He is all right when he is going forward, but he cannot go backwards. That is what licks the old fellows, trying to fight while giving ground. They have to use different muscles than when moving forward, and they experience an increased strain on their legs.

Baer had Nova set up for a knockout in the fourth round, but his creaking legs would not carry him into position to score the kill. He was like Dempsey of the Chicago fight with Gene Tunney. When Gene got up off the canvas after being knocked down in the seventh round, Dempsey's legs wouldn't carry him into a position from which he could score a knockout.

A fighter is no better than his legs. The records prove that at the age of 30 the average run of heavyweights have not the leg power to win.

The champions in other sports also must have leg power. The thoroughbred race horse, the ball player, the Marathon runner. None of them are any better than their legs.

You might also add to this list the show girl. At 30 the dolls of other days find they have to give way to a new field of fillies. Their legs have lost the limberness of youth.

Persons who have made a business of studying the human body will tell you that in some branches of sports, particularly baseball, tennis and golf, the period of physical decay does not set in until one has reached the age of 33. Then the grand old slide begins. Those persons who believe they are still great athletes when past the latter age, are trying to set themselves up as being exceptions to all the natural rules of nature.

IT WAS IN the Winter of 1929, and I was having breakfast with Jack Dempsey as we rode from Tampa to Miami. Dempsey was 32 years of age then.

"The rubber has left my legs," Dempsey confessed to me. "I cannot beat fast heavyweights like Tunney and Sharkey. I might be able to lick that big guy Carnera. He's pretty slow. I could also get a belt at Stribling while he was holding me. When one gets my age in the boxing game, his legs go on him. I can get $400,000 fighting Sharkey in New York in a return bout, but I don't want any part of it. You cannot beat guys like Sharkey and Tunney without leg power as well as fist power."

In the Summer of 1933, I was in Chicago while Jack Sharkey prepared to meet King Lewinsky at Comiskey Park. The night before the bout I found Sharkey walking along the lake front.

"How do you feel?" I asked the former champion.

"I feel all right," responded Sharkey, "but I have lost my speed. Sparring partners who formerly couldn't even get close to hitting me, are nailing me with punches on the jaw. I can go forward all right, but I find it difficult when I try to go backwards."

THE SCALES HAVE been telling the story that Joe Louis has not been as fast in recent bouts as he was when smashing his way through the opposition in his rise to fame. Joe has been weighing 202 to 203 pounds. He has trained hard, but he cannot get under 200 pounds.

When in Boston for the McCoy bout, the Louis management felt the "Brown Bomber" was finding it difficult to take off poundage on account of cold weather. Joe met with similar difficulties when training for Red Burman, Abe Simon and Tony Musto.

Due to easy living between bouts, Louis has packed on inside weight which doesn't roll off easily. The champion carries most of this excess poundage around his waist.

A few pounds of extra weight means the difference between scoring a punch and missing. As a boxer slows down, he also becomes an easier target for his rival's thrusts.

Louis is suffering from "rich man's sickness." Is it more enjoyable to play 13 holes of golf with pleasant company than it is to grind off five or six miles on the road alone in the early morning when the air is chill and when it is frequently snowing or raining.

"When I first knew Dempsey," Billy McCaine once told me, "he would knock over anyone who was in his way. After Jack became a social light in Hollywood, he spent so much time asking people to move aside for him that he lost his fighting spirit. Sure, hungry fighters make the best fighters."

Billy Conn will give the answer on Joe Louis in New York in June.

B. U. Student's 350 Sets Pace For College Bowling Singles

By WALTER KILEY

The Big Berthas of the New England candle pin world were amazingly silent during the 10th of the 13-day American-Record bowling championships at the Huntington Club. But one performance stood out and it was a feat which will be written into the world record books.

Joseph C. Avitable, of Braintree, a second year law student at Boston University, saved the day when he hit 350 in the college men's singles, highest such mark in tournament history.

Avitable was at the very peak of form, knocking off his strikes and spares with all the aplomb of a seasoned campaigner. He was consistent throughout and cool at all times as he blasted the maples for strings of 112-130-165.

Otherwise the Wednesday show was very much in contrast to the previous competitive days when new highs were being knocked off in one division after another almost as fast as the clerks could record them.

"BIG SHOTS" WAY OFF

It was particularly noticeable that the so called "big shots" of the sport met with ill fortune as they tested the Huntington Club alleys in doubles and team competitions.

With few exceptions they were bowler far below normal form which might well indicate that they got the bad stuff out of their systems before the long awaited professional singles championships are held on Saturday night.

All the big names on the candle-pin game were on hand. But of them all Jimmy O'Lindy of Quincy was tops. The popular proprietor was red-hot in the professional doubles when he connected for a five-string total of 576 and then hit 355 in the three strings of team competition.

ONLY TWO OVER 300

Harry Arathuk, former American-Record singles open champion, aided O'Lindy with 521 pins, so that they totaled 1097 in the doubles.

Joe Bonfigli, world champion, was "off." He started well with 331 but petered out and reached 513, while Roy Green, the City Council fireball star, helped him with only 491 for a total of 1004.

Francis Chinnello, defending champion in the American-Record open singles, did well in the mixed doubles when he ran up 542. But wife Gladys and he, as a tandem, were good for only 931, far behind the current leaders.

The Des Jardins Jewelers of Beverly, an open team composed of the top-flight artists, was only average on this occasion. The quietest just passed the 1500 mark at 1501. O'Lindy was the leader, while Arathuk was the only other man of the five to do better than 500 individually.

FAR BELOW RECORD

New England champion, Mike Corrado of Lynn, had a poor night of it. He hit 513 in the doubles and 283 in the team competition and as a result is rarin' to get at the singles on Saturday night. George Gastonguay aided Corrado with 544 in the doubles. Their combined effort was 1057.

Another headliner of the past met with misfortune. Miss Dorothy Yando of Pittsburgh, Scotch girl winner the past two years, fell far below her world record achievement of a year ago, as she connected for only 245 pins, which left her trailing Rita Sanehagria, the leader, by a considerable margin. Large fields are due to take to the Huntington Club alleys, both tonight, tomorrow and Saturday, as the big get and best American-Record classic nears its conclusion.

Phillies Seek Pirate in Vain

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 10 (AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch of Pittsburgh Pirates has had another call from a competitor seeking infielders. This time it was Doc Prothro, pilot of the Phillies. Bill Terry of the Giants had tried earlier. Presumably they want either Lee Hadley or Stu Martin, but Frisch won't do business except for a pitcher.

4 Reds, Yanks Carver's Choices in Flag Race

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, April 10 (INS)—As a prelude to the opening of the baseball season next week, we wish to step out today with a cluster of predictions, hopeful all the while that those who read this will remember the ones that come true and forget the rest.

Some of these are long shot stabs, the rest probabilities, but in every instance you can find baseball men who will agree that all of them could turn out as we call 'em.

In fact, we got the ideas talking to baseball men on our recent swing through the Florida training camps. The New York Yankees should win the American League pennant, but they face an obstacle in the person of 22-year-old Bob Feller, who figures to be a 30-game winner, barring injury or illness, and that may bring the Cleveland Indians in, according to many observers. Although he won 27 games last year, he hasn't even reached his peak.

As for the Yankees, they will attain all the popularity they lacked last season when they stumbled and stumbled throughout the race. They will be interesting to watch with the revamped infield.

TIGERS COUNT ON HANK

The Detroit Tigers will go good if they don't lose Hank Greenberg, but don't appear to have the stuff this time, although Hank Greenberg could have his best season. We will tab him, anyhow, as a 22-game winner. He has a sneaking notion that he will do better than that.

Over in the National League, we grant the Cincinnati Reds 60 victories on the efforts of Brooksie Watson, Paul Derringer and Gus Thompson, who combined to win 48 last season. We wouldn't be surprised if they should win even 65.

In any case, the Reds should outlast the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the latter thus seem doomed to more disappointment. They have a good club. But they have come along at a time when are at their peak and when the Cards are on the verge of getting hot. A good tip on the Cards is: watch their young pitchers.

The New York Giants won't figure in the National League race more than briefly and surely will find their level before midsummer, the same being seventh or eighth, depending upon how stubborn the Philadelphia Phillies may be about giving up the cellar.

The Giants need to rebuild, but won't or can't, and the only team that we saw in Florida was a chance to make a worse showing than the New York club was the Phillies. Flatly, the Giants will have their lowest total of victories in 10 years.

PICK BROWNS OVER SOX

The passing of Joe Guinn as shortstop of the Boston Red Sox seems assured for this season, although he may go until next. The Sox will have a hard time finishing better than fifth. But that's not a very rash prediction, considering their pitching. A long shot? Here's one, that the St. Louis

Browns will finish ahead of the Red Sox.

Mr. Casey Stengel's Boston Bees will win about 75 games, which won't get them any pennants, but will be 10 more than they won last year.

And as a parting long shot, neither race will be decided by more than four or five games, with the fights tough every step of the way.

Woman Lands 647-Pound Shark

MIAMI, Fla., April 10 (AP)—A 647-pound Mako shark, claimed as a world record for women anglers, was an entry today in the Metropolitan Miami fishing tournament. Mrs. Emory Ford of Detroit boated the big fellow, classified as a game fish, on a 39-thread line after a battle of an hour and 43 minutes. Reports reaching here said the shark made three tremendous leaps before being brought to gaff.

Records here indicated Mrs. Ford's catch was the fourth largest Mako shark ever caught, only White-Wickham, author Ernest Hemingway and Michael Lerner bettering it.

The fish was a probable winner of the Duke of Windsor trophy for the largest catch of any species during the tournament. The tournament ends April 20.

Pitcher Lee Leaves Cubs Office in Huff

CHICAGO, April 10 (AP)—Pitcher Bill Lee and Jim Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs, parted in a grim, strained atmosphere today after an hour's conference which failed to solve the hurler's contract difficulties.

Lee, who drove to Chicago from his home in Louisiana for the conference, obviously was unhappy but determined as he said.

"Gallagher offered $10,000. I said I would pitch for $15,000. Then I offered to sign for $15,000 if assured I would get the difference between $15,000 and $15,000 if I have a good season, Gallagher said $10,000.

"I can't pitch for $10,000." Gallagher met questions with a crisp "no comment."

Lee said he would remain in Chicago two or three days, but whether he would confer with the Cubs management again would depend on whether he was called.

The big right-hander drew $17,500 last year when he won nine games and lost 17. When he failed to sign a contract for $15,000, Gallagher reduced the figure to $10,000.

The Cubs' other holdout, Outfielder Hank Leiber, has not been heard from Gallagher said.

"I want to play ball for the Cubs and am sure I'll make a comeback this season."

"Sure, I had a bad year in 1940, but I had some of the good years when I don't think that I was overpaid. All I want to be paid is what I am worth."

Lee, who had two operations last year, one a tonsillectomy, blamed poor physical condition for his slump.

Ducky Pond Bates Coach

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 10 (AP)—The New Haven Register says today it has learned that Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond of Yale has been appointed head football and baseball coach at Bates College.

Pond was head football mentor at Yale, where he was a former star halfback and pitcher, from 1934 through last season.

DETROIT, April 10 (INS)—Army camps will be able to qualify soft ball teams for state or metropolitan tournaments and if they qualify may participate in the world championships, it was announced in Detroit today by Wilbur E. Lendis, president of the Amateur Softball Ass'n.

Harvard Boys Plan Protest to F. D. R.

$10,000 'CAP' ENDS FLORIDA RACE SEASON

MIAMI, Fla., April 10 (AP)—The $10,000 added Tropical Handicap—a 12-horse heat that might bring a record—tops off a money-making Florida race season today.

Advance indications were that the Tropical Park struts, lightning-fast this spring, would be in prime condition for the test for 2-year-olds and up over the mile and one-eighth route.

Many selectors leaned to Get Off, the horse that finished second to his Circle M stablemate Big Pebble in the $50,000 Widener Handicap last month.

Get Off has worked so well that Trainer William F. Pineson elected to withdraw Big Pebble and let the colt carry Edward S. Moore's colors alone. Top weighted at 120 pounds, Get Off was to be ridden by Bobby Howell.

Considerable support went to John B. Partridge's Many Stings, 1940 Widener victor but a disappointment last year in the Tropical. Paul Ryan drew the riding assignment and Many Stings got in at 108 pounds.

The veteran Don Meade was employed to ride Tower Stable's Royal Man, another well-liked contender, in at 116 pounds.

Other entries and their weights were Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, 118; Masmere Farm's Maeda, 116; Woodford Farm's Joe Schenck, 110; John B. Partridge's Devil's Crag, 108; Lexbrook Stable's Potranco, 106; Montain, owned by H. Friedberg and E. Axton, 106; W. G. Stroube's Sirasia, 105; G. W. Teak's Scotch Trap, 103; and R. T. O'Neill's Boss Hoss, 100.

Tropical's spring meeting has been so successful that horsemen expected final figures to show the Florida season ranked only behind the 1939-40 banner engagement.

Mack's Prediction On Vaughn True

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 10 (AP)—Porter Vaughn, whose wildness had Connie Mack worried earlier this spring, apparently is shaping up as the veteran manager of the A's predicted.

He pitched winning ball against the Pirates this week and teammates say he not only has regained his control but his self-confidence.

Penn's Reagan Gives Up Majors For U. S. Marines

PHILADELPHIA, April 10 (AP)—Frank Reagan, Penn's great football and baseball player, probably kissed $7500 good-bye yesterday when he enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserves.

Definitely big league timber as a catcher, he was reported to have been offered that amount as a bonus for signing with at least two major league outfits. The Phillies were said to be one of them.

But Frank passed up a big league career to serve Uncle Sam and will enter the marine basic school at the Navy Yard here in October for training. He already mailed in his draft questionnaire and figured he'd be called up in July.

'No Further Comment,' Says Academy Super

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10 (AP)—Rear Adm. Russell Wilson, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy, said he had "no further comment" to make on a charge by the coach and manager of Harvard University's lacrosse team that he had told them Harvard could not play a Negro against the Academy.

The Academy, accused of "intolerant Jim Crowism" by the Harvard Crimson undergraduate daily regarding withdrawal of Lucian Alexis, Jr., New Orleans Negro, from a lacrosse game here last Saturday, adhered to an earlier declaration that the Middies draw no racial lines in sports.

Lindsey Goes to Line At Bowling Congress

ST. PAUL, April 10 (AP)—The 41st annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress will again swing into high gear tonight, with more of bowling big names adding color to the national pin classic.

Heading tonight's card is Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Ct., who flew from Florida yesterday to compete with the Stamford, Ct., team. Lindsey is one of bowling's biggest names. He has won A. B. C. titles three times and holds an average of 198 for a period of 28 years. On four occasions he has beaten the 1900 mark in the all-events, winning the nine-game title in 1919 with the total of 1933. He was on title-winning five-man teams in 1912 and 1914.

'Ice Follies' Open At Garden Tonight

The Ice Follies come back to the Garden tonight for a four-day return engagement.

The Follies were seen by close to 140,000 persons when here in January, and established a new attendance record, with sellout performances for seven nights and two matinees.

The Follies is considered the fastest moving skating and comedy revue now thrilling the nation. It swings along at a lively pace from the opening overture to the grand finale.

First of the musical and ensemble numbers grace the ice is

The Moonlight Vision featuring Valerie and Jenna, two pretty young ladies from the mid-west who have risen to feature spots from the famous Follies precision chorus.

They are supported by 24 charming ladies attired in lovely white frothy dresses and carrying illuminated "moonbeam" balloons that glow brilliantly in the shadowy routine as the house lights fade and give an entrancing touch to the number.

Following closely on the skates of the opening feature comes "Diana of the Moonbeams," a new Diana, as the original, Les Hamilton, has been drafted and is now costumed in khaki instead of frilly pink silk. Bobby Widholm, from St. Paul, and formerly a member of the follies chorus group takes Hamilton's spot, and does a swell job of this uproariously comic routine.

The darlings of the show, Ruby and Bobby Maxon, head the next phase of the Follies program portraying a dance of the "Nordic Dollies."

'Foxy' Flumere Named Dunn's Aide at N. U.

Emanuel "Foxy" Flumere, three-sport coach at Lawrence High School, Fairfield, Me., was appointed today as assistant coach of football, baseball and basketball at Northeastern University. He succeeds Harold Kopp, who resigned to take an assistant's berth at Brown.

POISE and grace are the qualities developed to the nth degree by Bess Ehrhardt, star of the "Ice Follies," which opens a four-day stand at the Boston Garden tonight. This is a return performance for the "Follies," for they were sold out every night during their February stop here

ENTERS B.A.A. MARATHON

The latest release on entries for the coming B. A. A. marathon, to be held over the Hopkinton to Boston course April 19, includes the name of Robert Rankine of Preston, Ont., and adds a great international color to the Unicorn race.

And in addition to Rankine, from Kanaly announced the entry of Johnny Kelley, Edison Employees' Club of Boston, winner in 1935, and second place winner last year.

"Scotty" Rankine is one of the outstanding long distance runners in Canada. Last year was his first attempt at the B. A. A. Marathon and for over 18 miles the wearer of the Maple Leaf was a serious contender for honors.

The Newton Hills, which were new to Rankine, got in their work and the little Canadian wound up in seventh place at the finish line on Exeter st. Rankin says that he learned his lesson in the 1940 run and that one week from next Saturday it will be a different story. The Canadian entry looks good and will be backed by many to win the 1941 American marathon.

Pee-Wee Reese Hurts Foot Again

BALTIMORE, Md., April 10 (INS) — Harold (Pee-Wee) Reese, upon whom the Brooklyn Dodgers rely heavily for bringing them the National league pennant, injured his left foot here while sliding into home plate in an exhibition game with the Yankees.

Last season Reese broke a bone in the hot of the same foot and was compelled to give up playing the remainder of 1940.

Dr. George Bennett, following an examination, said Reese had suffered a sprain of his heel bone, but would be able to resume playing in a couple of days and could be expected to appear in the Dodgers' opening day lineup next Tuesday.

Nemesis

When (center) Marie Enfanto, 9, was struck by a hit-run driver in Everett, her friends, Alice Cochrane and (right) Julia Pan-nese, each 13, scratched the car's number on the sidewalk. Then Robt. W. Walton, 40, of Woburn was seized, sentenced. Marie suffered an injured leg.

Rescued

Carried to safety from St. Vincent's Infant Home, Baltimore, when a two-alarm blaze endangered the institution, nine of the 43 children rescued are looked after by nurses.

The 23d Annual Competitive Drill and Review of the High School of Commerce is held in the 101st Infantry Armory, Boston, today . . . and the Seventh Company, led by Capt. John J. Eagan, struts its stuff. Exhibition of bugle and drum corps featured the competition.
